SKINNY KIBBLES

Around And About Town

With C. F. SKIRVIN

When in the course of human events you get your name on some one's mailing list, there is no telling when you will get it off. I am still receiving mail through correspondence which originated so many years ago, to tell you would reveal the annual cycles, which by the way wouldn't make any difference to me, but might embarrass an attaché. Letter this a. m. from Lawrence Jones, of the Pine Woods School, Piney Woods, emphasizes the mailing list continuity, which remains unbroken over a long period of years. Same from an institution, at Council Bluffs, with occasional sour notes from oil companies, long since deceased so far as hope is concerned. You get 'em. It isn't an exclusive service by any means.

Harry Owings, vacationing in the Portland area, has carried the gospel to the Congregationalists. He is sojourning in the lovely northwest, and substituting for some minister who is using part of the summer for relaxation and meditation. I shall communicate with Perry Schrock and advise him as to the ministerial obligation he is under, and maybe on his vacation he can supply in one of the Baptist pulpits. Of this I am sure: There will be no loss of spiritual edification on either side.

James Daly, who edits the San Ysidro Border Press, in town Monday, Messing around with Wilbur Getty and some with "me." Missed the Stockton convention of the Legion boys of which he is one out of many. Inquired about "Merrill" and other ink boys. Insisted there had been little change, at least for the better, in my appearance, and then decided he would leave town next day.

One of those Lazarus incidents has occurred in our office. During the hibernation of Brick Gaines, who was touring and fishing and hunting and recreating and yachting, I sent out an appeal to his county newspaper friends to come to the aid of a brother in distress, and they responded with true and able journalistic spirit. Proper recognition of the contribution was made with the exception of Vernon King, editor of The Garden Grove News, and his epistle to the "Brick Dust" column did not appear. In fact, it still hasn't appeared, except for a blushing confession from "Brick" that Vernon's column was inadvertently submerged, and in moving desks around it came to light. Having been responsible for the origin of the idea, I herewith offer an apology, not that it's my business to do so, but I'm afraid no one else will.

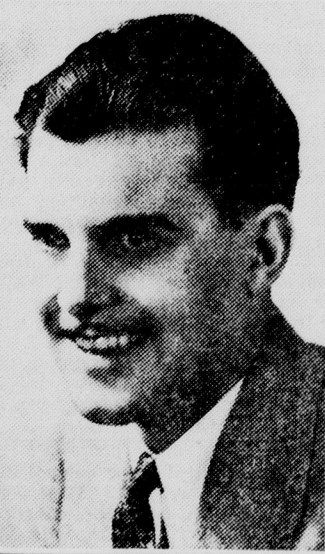

And then there was the poor fish who talked about marine life.

Bill Wieland gives me a picture of the West when game was so plentiful you could kick it with your foot. You know I've got to believe him. Once upon a time, in the state bordering Colorado on the south, and long before Ed Harriman made a railroad out of the Union Pacific, I used to get transportation to go into Wyoming, where sagehens were as friendly as a chorus girl. If you had that early viewpoint, or one much earlier, you would appreciate wild life in the West, and maybe live long enough to regret its disappearance. Wieland's preparation to motor back to Colorado revived the incidents.

And then there was the father who was so glad when mother told him the baby could walk. He said he wouldn't have to carry him any more.

I am disturbed over the apparent incompatibility of my friend George Angle. He left several days ago on a trip north, which was to include the Mendocino State Hospital. George hasn't even mailed a souvenir card. Perhaps his infatuation for Dr. Cushman has been the cause of my insolation. Or it may be that George is too busy hibernating at one of the nearby springs to pay any attention. (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 1)

TWO CITRUS GROVES BRING $80,000

Cood Adams, Frank McCarter Places Sold

Two citrus deals, involving $80,000 in cash, were completed today by Tubach and Cook, prominent local real estate brokers.

In one of the deals, ownership of the Cood Adams home place, including 12 acres of valencias, passed to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dunlap, of Portland, Ore. The ranch is located on Tustin avenue.

The sale included the big Adams home located on the property. Adams is retaining his 40 acres of citrus adjacent to Lemon Heights. The 12 acres he sold is planted to valencias from five to eight years old. Mrs. Dunlap is a sister of Mrs. Art Rimel. The Rimels are prominent local citrus operators.

In the other deal, in which W. A. Cook and W. S. Tubach represented both the sellers and the purchasers, the Frank McCarter place, located on Richie street south of McFadden street, was sold to C. L. Spencer.

It contained 13.38 acres.

Tire Thief Knifes Man Here, Flees

James Campbell felt the breath of death whistling by his face early this morning when he engaged in a desperate hand-to-hand battle with a burglar who sought to slush him with a knife. Campbell, employee of the American Auto Salvage company on South Main street, escaped from the fight with cuts on his left arm, with which he ward off the slashes of the knife.

Strip-Artist Pulls New Tease Stunt Here Today

Gypsy Rose Lee-Hovick-Mizzy didn't show up here today to get married again.

Reporters, photographers and others kept pecking in the marriage license bureau at the courthouse. But no Gypsy, who, if you remember, wowed 'em in New York by disrobing publicly.

But Miss—or Mrs.—Lee-Hovick-Mizzy was too busy, making movies at Twentieth-Century Fox to be married again today. Following the stripper's marriage at sea to Robert Mizzy Friday night, she had announced they would be married more formally today.

Asked when she would be married again, she said today: "It depends on the production schedule."

Cup Defender Loses to Yankee

BOARD COAST GUARD LUTER ARGO, Off Newport, R. I. (AP)—Gerard Lambert's Yankee Ranger lost his second defeat of the season today, whipping the successful America's cup defender by five minutes on the first leg of the New York yacht club cruise today.

POLITICAL 'PLUM' GOES TO GEETING

S. A. Youth Wins Post At Washington, D. C.

A juicy plum, flavored with the tang of politics, dropped into the mouth of a prominent Santa Ana man today.

Baxter Geeting, well-known son of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Geeting, 2405 Valencia street, received a telegram from Chester Williams, assistant United States commissioner of education, Washington, D. C., informing him that he has been chosen to do special work in the office of the commissioner.

Baxter Geeting now is enrolled in the University of Southern California and the close of the summer semester will finish his preliminary work, which will enable him to obtain a Ph. D. degree.

SCHOOL LEADER

He is a graduate of Santa Ana Junior college and Pomona college, and had special work at the University of California. He has won a number of medals in the various institutions of learning for his outstanding work in public speaking and drama. He has the record of having been president of his class when he graduated from the San Diego High school, president of his class in Santa Ana Junior college, and had the same honor when at Pomona college.

His wife will be remembered here as Corinne Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Nelson. H. G. Nelson is principal of Julia LaTrop Junior High school in this city.

TO LEAVE SOON

Mr. and Mrs. Baxter Geeting will remain in Los Angeles for a few weeks, and then will leave for their new home in the nation's capital.

His mother, Mrs. M. E. Geeting, is probably the most prominent and active woman Democratic leader in Orange county. She has been active in past political campaigns and at the present time is serving as secretary of the Orange county unit of the California Assembly of Democrats. M. E. Geeting, Baxter Geeting's father, served as history clerk in the 1937 state legislature.

NAMED TO BOARD

KLAN CHARGE STIRS BLACK COURT FIGHT

MATTERN IS GROUNDED IN AIR SEARCH

Three Nations Look For Lost Russians

FAIRBANKS, Alaska. (AP)—Aviators of three nations gathered on the rim of the Arctic today for a far-flung search into the bleak wastes where six Russian trans-polar fliers vanished last Friday.

Wind, rain and lowering clouds, which swept ominously across the top of the world yesterday, balked American, Russian and Canadian airmen from launching an aerial hunt.

Among those grounded by the storm was Jimmy Matern, American aviator who in 1933 was saved from death in the wilds of Siberia by Sigismund Levanevsky, pilot of the missing plane which was en route here on a 4000-mile flight from Moscow.

Matern, who was on a world flight when he crashed in Siberia, spent yesterday equipping his fast, long distance ship with de-icers to battle the cold he expects to encounter in the hunt. A refueling plane to enable him to extend his search was en route here from his California headquarters.

At Aklavik, Northwest Territory, Canadian pilot, Bob Ransel, was ready to soar out over the frozen Arctic ocean in a plane chartered by the Russian embassy in Washington. At Markovo, on the Anadir river in Siberia, Soviet Pilot Zadkoff prepared to hop to Cape Weilen on the northern Siberian coast. The Soviet icebreaker Krassin was loaded with three seaplanes at Cape Schmidt and was ready to steam toward the Alaskan coast.

Vague radio messages picked up on a wave length assigned to the missing transport plane spurred searchers in the hopes the ship had landed safely, possibly on an ice floe.

COUNTY FACES $82,000 SUIT

The city of Los Angeles prepared today to file suit against Orange county and the city of Seal Beach for about $82,000 in taxes—as soon as the taxes are paid.

The city must resort to court action now, following refusal by the state board of equalization yesterday to lower Assessor James Sleeper's $2,000,000 valuation on the mammoth Seal Beach lighting plant, which is owned by Los Angeles.

The city now will pay its taxes under protest and file suit to recover the money paid and get a court ruling on the assessment. Sleeper assessed $2,000,000 worth of machinery as improvements, and Los Angeles contended it should be classed as personal property, which is tax-exempt when owned by a municipality.

DYER'S PAL SOUGHT BY PROSECUTION

Victim's Plea for Life Told Jury

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—The state brought its murder case against Albert Dyer toward a close today as it searched for a witness for use against the man charged with slaying three little girls.

The witness sought is Jimmy Leach, a fellow WPA worker of the 32-year-old defendant. Prosecutors intimated that Dyer talked to him about the slayings before he was arrested.

Chief witnesses during yesterday's trial session were Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz and District Attorney Attorney Byron Fitts. Sheriff Biscailuz testified that Dyer raised his right hand and swore:

"Before God, I killed those girls."

Biscailuz said this statement was made in the presence of Fitts and himself, thus confirming a previous alleged confession.

Fitts said a confession he said the defendant made before the grand jury which indicted him for murder.

One of the child victims, Melba Everett, 9, pleaded with Dyer not to harm her, the document said.

"Oh, don't hurt me—please don't hurt me," it read.

Testimony that the victims, Melba; her sister, Madeline, 7, and Jeanette Stephens, 8, were beaten and strangled to death, then attacked, was given by Dr. A. F. Wagner, county autopsy surgeon.

Another doctor, Charles W. Decker, testified that he examined Dyer after his arrest, and that his findings bore out the prisoner's account of his treatment of the children.

Deputy District Attorney William E. Simpson, who is prosecuting Dyer, said he expected to close the state's case before tonight.

COPELAND IS LEADER AS CHARGES FLY

Nominee Absent as Senate Battle Rages

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Senator Copeland (D., N. Y.) raised the Ku Klux Klan issue against Senator Black (D., Ala.) in the senate today with a statement that he felt "outraged by this proposal to put a Klan sympathizer" on the supreme court.

Opening the debate before crowded senate galleries on the nomination of Black to the supreme court, Copeland said the nomination should be rejected "if the Klan relationship is accepted as true," but that if there was doubt about it in senatorial minds it should be sent back to committee for an investigation.

When Copeland concluded, after speaking for an hour and a half without a single interruption, Senator Burke (D., Neb.) arose and carried on the attack.

RULE 'DANGEROUS'

Criticizing the precedent for quick senate confirmation of a nomination of a senator, Burke said that "immoral rule" was "unwise and dangerous." He urged special caution in confirmation of nominations of senators.

He asserted that Black did not possess an "impartial mind" and questioned whether he was "able to administer even-handed justice to all who come before him, regardless of religion or race."

Wife, Three Children Said Among Refugees

A Santa Ana family today was trapped in Nanking, where five times during the last 24 hours Japanese bombing planes rained steel and explosive death on the Chinese capital.

Relatives and friends here anxiously awaited news of the fate of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Mead and their three children. But so far no word has come.

The dead and injured at Nanking have not been estimated officially, but the unofficial figures placed in the hands of the American embassy officials, and the family here was hoping that the Meads will be in (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 2)

SHANGHAI IN SHAMBLES AS GUNS ROAR

2000 Refugees on Flight Down River

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Secretary Hull said today this government had ordered 1200 marines to sail from San Diego to Shanghai to protect American nationals from violence.

Hull also announced the department was asking congress to appropriate $500,000 for all necessary relief and evacuation expenses arising from the Chinese-Japanese emergency.

The marines will sail within 10 days, Hull said. He added that it would require five weeks to land them in Shanghai.

The secretary made it plain that the reinforcement of American guards already in strategic places in China was being taken primarily as a precautionary measure and for use possibly as replacements for guards who are there.

100,000 BATTLE IN SHANGHAI TERRITORY

SHANGHAI. (AP)—Shell splinters sprayed peaceful foreign home areas with death by day and great guns roared over terror tonight for the Chinese-Japanese battlefront of Shanghai.

One hundred thousand men with guns and bombs fought on to a goal none could foresee.

Fires raged the city. Unconfirmed reports said Chinese troops had pressed hard on Japanese positions along the lines northeast of Shanghai facing the Whangpoo river beyond the international settlement. In some places they were believed to have penetrated Japanese advance positions.

FLAMES ROAR

Darkness also disclosed three huge fires started by Chinese bombs and shells within Japanese lines.

Japanese big guns boomed after dark in a renewal of the attack which earlier today threw shell fragments into the French concession, where most Americans in Shanghai live.

Concession police were unable to learn the number of dead or injured, but estimated 50 persons, all Chinese, were struck by shrapnel or shell splinters.

Business utterly collapsed.

2000 REFUGEES FLEE

More than 2000 American and British women and children fled from Shanghai. They played hide and seek with death down the Whangpoo river to reach waiting liners under the blazing guns of the Japanese fleet.

Sunset found "French Town" ready for another dark night of siege. Foreigners and Chinese alike feared a repetition of last night's terrific battle over Pootung, industrial area across the Whangpoo river from the concession.

There were no estimates of casualties in outlying areas, but it was believed many were added to the thousands already killed and wounded in the five-day battle.

Chinese-Japanese air duels shook the city until early in the afternoon, spraying hot steel through-out the French concession.

Here struggling business crumpled. (Continued on Page 2, Column 3)

I'll Tell You

By BOB BURNS

There's nothin' I admire more than a man who deals with the public and can handle situations diplomatically and keep everybody happy. That's what I liked about Rev. Tweedle. He had the only church in his town and he handled all kinds of people, but he treated 'em all with equal consideration. One Sunday a lady came to Rev. Tweedle after church and says, "That plumber that sits in front of me has such a terrible voice and he can't carry a tune and he insists on singing." She says, "He's ruining the services for me and you'll have to give him another pew." Rev. Tweedle says, "No, I can't do that because he's liable to ask me why I moved him and it would hurt his feelings if I told him, but I'll tell you what I can do. I can ask him to join the choir."

Jealous Seagull Murders Her Pal

Nira is lonely today. The scourge of murder makes the heart of the pet seagull heavy.

Yesterday at Laguna Beach she killed Fido, her best seagull friend.

Nira's loneliness is the penalty of uncontrollable jealousy. She was jealous of Fido because Fido was first in the home of Mrs. E. C. Wildig and Lily Wildig, 497 Magnolia street, Laguna Beach. Fido's cheerful disposition had won the love of her human friends.

What Nira could not win by personal charm she captured by her belligerent, demanding tactics. Although she was a newcomer, she insisted on being first in the bird bath. Fido waited patiently while Nira bathed. In other ways Nira commanded attention; but Fido, of the gentle manners, won the love of the Wildigs.

Nira kept the fires of jealousy hidden most of the time. She even slept on a stool beside Fido's perch, making it appear that she was friendly. But in the dark hours of the night, jealousy flamed in the seagull's breast—and a plot was born.

The Wildigs, who befriended the injured seagulls and gave them a home, were unaware of the impending crisis.

Yesterday the storm broke. Nira flew madly at Fido in a fierce attack. She killed Fido.

Despite her crime, Nira still remains a member of the Wildig household. Last night the seagull perched on its stool alone. There was no jealousy in its heart—only other emotions.

Nira has no bird friends now. The wild gulls soaring and wheeling in the blue sky above, cannot take Nira back to their flock. Nira, injured, cannot join them.

Another chapter is ready to add to the history of pets, recently published by Mrs. Wildig, and illustrated by Lily Wildig.

MILLER CASTS 183 FEET TO LEAD FIELD

Huntington Beach Man In National Contest

A gentle breeze at his back, Richard G. Miller of Huntington Beach, Fla., today led a field of 33 entrants in the national distance fly casting championship at Buffalo, N. Y.

Miller's longest heave landed 13 feet beyond his closest competitor, Ed Lott, Jr., Cleveland fly tesser. In third place came Jack McFish Sparks, a Waco, Tex., sports writer, who reached an average of 158 1/2 feet, in five minutes of casting, the Associated Press reported.

Miller, president of the Huntington Beach Fly Casting club, was confident he would establish a new world record at the national meet, and carried out his prediction when his cast of 183 feet far eclipsed the former world mark of 141 feet.

He manufactures his own casting poles, lines and flies, and has spoken upon scientific angling before many Orange county clubs.

Miller lost his chance to enter the casting hall of fame last year at Portland, Ore., when a sore shoulder kept him out of the final competition. He is employed by the Southern Counties Gas company at Huntington Beach.

tion to me. He will be home in a few weeks and there is one thing I can ask him. And that is the cause of neglect.

My friend Dave Browning of Laguna Beach, with an overhanging visibility of Lee county, Iowa, from the Illinois border, tried vainly to locate former Iowa friends at the Long Beach picnic. He resorted to what he thought an infallible method in his search for me and looked under every cap he encountered, without success. But he did notice several attractive brunettes. That's funny. I didn't see 'em.

George Gershwin is dead at 38 after making his mark. I'm still alive at something like 35, more than that age because I haven't done so much marking. The moral it would seem—do not be too ambitious.

Carl Edgar's brother from the Dalles, Oregon, section, a good fisherman. He sent a salmon safely iced to Carl. The express man notified the Santa Ana citizen he had a dead fish for him. That didn't sound so good. With more or less fear the fish was unpacked and Carl came into his office dragging the fish. He carried one of his shoulders farther out of alignment than was really necessary, but it made a much better picture.

Negro Slaying Suspect Lynched

COVINGTON, Tenn. (AP)—The bullet-punctured body of a 35-year-old negro slaying suspect was found hanging beneath a highway bridge 12 miles east of here early today.

The negro, Albert Gooden, was taken from Sheriff W. J. Vaughan by a band of six masked men yesterday while the sheriff was bringing his prisoner by automobile from Memphis to Covington. Gooden was accused of slaying Marshal Chester Doyle of Mason, Tenn., July 17 and was being brought here for a hearing today after having been held in Memphis for safekeeping.

Sheriff Vaughan said an automobile carrying the six men drew abreast of his car about eight miles from here and forced him to stop. While two of the masked marauders held pistols on the sheriff and a companion, Gooden was hauled from the officer's automobile.

Emmett D. Caskey, Rancher, Dies

Emmett Dean Caskey, 64, a Santa Ana rancher for the past 20 years, died at his home, 1535 East First street, yesterday after an illness of several days.

Born in Lynnville, Tenn., Mr. Caskey came to Santa Ana in 1917. He was a member of the First Presbyterian church during his residence here.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. May R. Caskey; one daughter, Eva Dean Caskey of Santa Ana; one sister, Lena Caskey of Lynnville, Tenn., and three brothers, John B. Caskey and Willie Caskey of Lynnville, and R. M. Caskey of Fort Worth, Tex. Funeral services will be announced later by Smith and Rutilil.

Board Plans New Law on Garbage

Because the old law didn't define "garbage," supervisors today moved to pass another in the series of ordinances attempting to keep commercial hog ranches out of Orange county.

The board was to consider a new ordinance this afternoon, introduced this morning by Supervisor John Mitchell. The new ordinance is the same as one passed several years ago, except that it defines "garbage," which the old one did not. On this ground the old ordinance was ineffective in prohibiting importation of garbage for feeding to hogs.

this group. The first group of refugees is scheduled to proceed to Hankow tonight, with others going tomorrow.

NO MESSAGE

Miss Mildred Mead, 601 South Ross street, sister of Loren Mead, said today no message has been received from him for some time. Miss Mead lives with her mother, Mrs. Jennie Mead.

Mrs. Loren Mead before her marriage was Miss Alma Plavan. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Plavan of San Juan Capistrano. Mr. and Mrs. Mead have three sons, Donald, 16, born in Peking, Rodney, 8, and Catherine, 6, both born in Shanghai.

Mrs. George Parker of Santa Ana also is a sister of Loren Mead. Another sister is Mrs. Osgood Hardy of Eagle Rock. She and her husband, Dr. Osgood Hardy, are now on their way home from a trip to the Orient.

Miss Mildred Mead said today, "We feel sure Loren and his family are safe. He has been in China 20 years and told us if there ever was any danger he would let us know."

Mead is manager of the Nanking territory for the Standard Oil company. He is a cousin of Harold Brown, exalted ruler of the Elks lodge here.

Four other Santa Anans who found themselves in the middle of the Chinese-Japanese fighting were reported safe today, two of them probably on the way back to the United States.

ON WAY HOME

Miss Marjory Anne Mathes and Miss Betty Heil were thought to be on their way home, having escaped danger in the Shanghai fighting.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lewis, 1770 East Fourth street, wrote friends recently they were at Peitaiho beach, a missionary and tourist resort in the Tientsin area, visiting Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Lewis, their son and daughter-in-law, and three grandchildren. Their only news of the fighting, they wrote, is what they read in a British newspaper. Several ocean liners, they reported, were near the port, so that they could leave China in case of danger.

Miss Mathes' last letter home didn't even mention the war. It was written July 17 while she was on a steamer between Shanghai and Tsingtao, a beach resort. She planned to visit Tientsin and Shanghai and leave the United States early this month.

Miss Heil, Pomona college student, was to leave for home July 26, and is expected soon in this country, friends said.

'Orphan' Newbert District Aided

The orphaned Newbert Protection district, which wants to dissolve but can't until the legislature gets around to saying it's all right, finally got things settled with the board of supervisors today.

The county flood control district will take over and maintain the levees in the district along the Santa Ana river, relieving the district of levying $1500 in taxes this year to provide for emergencies.

Supervisors assured district representatives today that even new construction will be undertaken by the flood control district when it is necessary, pending dissolution of the Newbert district. Franklin West, attorney for the district, Preston Turner, deputy district attorney, and Newbert directors will meet Friday morning with Supervisors N. E. West and John Mitchell to draw up an agreement for county operation.

Drunk Driver to Serve 50 Days

One drunk driver, two disturbers of the peace and a man accused of violating his parole were booked in the Orange county jail yesterday.

Truman K. Van Tuyle, 27, Downey, was booked by Fullerton police to serve a 50 day sentence for drunk driving. Alfonso Asuna, 28, Anaheim laborer, started to serve a 25 day sentence for disturbing the peace as did Philip Anthony Montijo, 32, Redlands. Both were arrested in Anaheim.

Carlos Canas, 34, was placed in county jail on a bench warrant charging him with violating his probation.

FRANCE IS THREATENED BY REBELS

GIBRALTAR. (AP)—Gen. Gonzalo Queipo de Llano, southern commander of the insurgent armies, declared today that "France's day of reckoning is not far off" in a radio attack against France as the enemy of Spanish interests.

The "radio general" asserted in the broadcast from Salamanca that France "has always been between a bad neighbor who always acted against Spanish interests."

SANTANDER TOTTERS UNDER REBEL DRIVE

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier. (AP)—Gen. Francisco Franco's legions lunged against the tottering defenses of Santander from five directions today. Insurgent tankettes predicted the fall of the Biscayan capital within a week.

One powerful column, which ripped open a path way through the defenses, was reported to have routed Spanish government troops from Escudo pass. Santander's last mountain stronghold on the south, and to be within 30 miles of its coastal objective.

A dispatch from the insurgent side said seven government battalions had been trapped by Franco's fast moving offensive and that the number of government dead had reached into the thousands. The insurgent command claimed the government's northern defense had been demoralized.

100,000 IN SHANGHAI FIGHT

bled before the gravest emergency in Shanghai's history. Stores were locked and barred, with only a few handing out supplies from a silt in the door or a carefully opened window.

In the international settlement the empty Broadway mansions, apartment hotels, and the Astor House hotel began to bar their doors. However, before it could close, the Japanese military quarantined 1500 Japanese refugees in the Astor House, virtually ejecting the management and taking over the property.

Many foreign households were virtually without food.

Among the refugees who left Shanghai today were Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., and her son, Quentin, who went down the Whangpoo to the President Jefferson, bound for Manila.

DANGEROUS TRIP

Twice a Dollar Line tender made the perilous trip down the Whangpoo, safely carrying loads of American refugees to the Jefferson. Then the ship slipped out to the open sea toward Manila.

Another Dollar liner, the President Hoover from Manila, was expected to complete a fast 54-hour run Thursday to pick up more Americans fleeing from the war dangers and privations. She carried U. S. Marine reinforcements and doctors.

Nearby, Chinese troops were fighting hand to hand with the Japanese Kishi brigade, the unit to which Lieut. Oyama was attached at the time his death in the first clash at Hungjiao airport west of the city caused Japan to rush warships, planes and land troops in Shanghai.

The Chinese repeatedly charged the Japanese until the men of Kishi fixed bayonettes and counter charged with cold steel. They stopped the Chinese advance only at the cost of tremendous losses including their commander. Chinese losses also were heavy.

BATTLE LINES TOLD

The battle lines were drawn from the area north of Shanghai centering on the north Szechwan road through the fringes of Hongkew to the Whangpoo and across the river in the Pootung industrial area where some 35,000 Chinese troops were entrenched with heavy artillery.

From Nanking came reports of a "severe aerial battle" at Hangchow, southwest of Shanghai on the tip of Hangchow bay, an arm of the China sea.

Japanese suddenly evacuated the foreign concession at Canton and departed for Hongkong on board a merchantman conveyed by destroyers. The ship carried Japanese consular officials as well as civilians.

Chinese authorities at Canton advised women and children of the city to start evacuation for safety against a possible aerial attack. Chinese mounted anti-aircraft guns on the roofs of Canton buildings. A number of White Russians were reported arrested on charges they were in the service of Japan.

SEA GIVES UP MYSTERY BODY

Coroner Earl Abbey was today conducting an investigation to identify the body of a middle-aged man which washed to shore off the west jetty entrance to Balboa bay, about 6:30 this morning.

Officers could not find any identification marks other than a key container. After searching for a short time, they found a car which the keys fit. The car was registered to David M. Reid, 2330 Angelus avenue, San Gabriel.

The body was taken to the Dixon Funeral home in Costa Mesa, where an investigation is now being conducted.

Want Hair on Head? Buy a Wig, Expert Says

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—The bald truth, Dr. Frank J. Clancy of Chicago said today, is that if America's bald-headed men want hair on top of their heads they should buy wigs.

The director of the American Medical Association's board of investigation said all the tonics in the world would not make hair grow where there is none to grow.

"Tonics may create a little fuzz, but nothing more," he said in an interview. "I'm getting bald myself, but I don't try to kid myself into thinking there is anything that will grow hair on my head."

COPELAND LEADS SENATE FIGHT

Democratic side of the chamber as the bitter attack went forward.

A small group of Republicans and "old line" Democrats facing almost certain defeat were lined up in the fight against Black.

They claimed only 20 votes. The 13 to 4 favorable vote yesterday by the judiciary committee, they said broke the opposition campaign.

Their hope for delaying confirmation rested with Copeland, whose speech bringing in the Ku Klux Klan issue dealt with a subject previously discussed guardedly in senate cloakrooms.

Copeland, just back from New York where he conferred on his mayoralty candidacy, took the floor at the outset of today's session which senate leaders called an hour earlier than usual in an effort to confirm the Black nomination today.

Discussing the nomination in the light of what he called "the Klan relationship," Copeland said "I have no doubt of what my action should be."

CARE IS URGED

He said the founders of the government "sought to make certain that the fundamental rights of American citizens might not be trampled underfoot by tyrannical officials, intolerant majorities, or narrow minded judges."

"Throughout its history," he added, "the supreme court has independently and fearlessly discharged this duty."

"The court's aloofness from partisan politics, bigotry and popular clamor has heretofore been considered its crowning virtue—a virtue essential to the impartial interpretation and application of constitutional restrictions."

"From the time he came into the senate Mr. Black has been a leader against all efforts to pass an anti-lynching bill. Within two weeks he moved to table my own motion to add this rider to a pending bill. COPELAND 'OUTRAGED'

"Naturally, one wonders what Mr. Justice Black would do were another Scottsboro case appealed to the supreme court."

Copeland said he felt "so outraged by this proposal to put a Klan sympathizer upon the bench that it is difficult to discuss the matter in temperate language."

"I say now of the New Deal," he added, "that if it must depend for its validation upon decisions participated in by members or supporters of this un-American, unchristian and ungodly organization, the Ku Klux Klan, it must be apparent to the country that the New Deal is founded in iniquity."

Almost the full membership of the senate gathered to hear the debate. Many house members lined the back walls of the chamber.

KLAN HEAD DENIES BLACK A MEMBER

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Dr. Hiram W. Evans, imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan, expressed indifference today to a statement of Senator Copeland (D., Ala.), supreme court nominee, was "a Klan sympathizer."

"I'm hoing my own row," Dr. Evans said. "I don't care a darn about either one of them."

"Copeland is running for mayor of New York. He has to have an issue. I don't intend to become the issue."

The imperial wizard said Black "is not a member of the Klan."

PACKERS HIT INSPECTOR'S PAY PLAN

If meat packers are required to pay salaries of county meat inspectors, it will drive the smaller packers out of business, the board of supervisors was told today.

Attorneys for two packers asked members of the board to reconsider its plan to require packers to pay the salaries, terming the plan "discriminatory."

Clarence Sprague of the law firm of Forgy, Reinhaus and Forgy, representing the Alpha Beta packing house at Huntington Beach, told supervisors the plan would require a boost in the price of meat 1 cent a pound, which, he said, would seriously jeopardize the business of local packers.

Larger houses, he said, have free federal inspection, and thus could keep their prices at the present level, practically putting the smaller houses out of business. The Alpha Beta company, he said, has an investment of almost $1,000,000 here, and employs 35 men at the packinghouse at Huntington Beach.

Before Sprague addressed the board, Former Congressman Sam Collins, representing the South Coast Meat company, also discussed the matter with individual members of the board. No action was taken on the matter.

COUNTY UNION ASKS PAY RISE

Supervisors heard their first demand from a county employees' union today as they prepared to take up a general revision of salaries, possibly this afternoon or tomorrow.

John Chambers, walking delegate for the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, appeared before the board today and said he thought road department employees were entitled to a 20 or 25 per cent raise. They now receive a minimum of 50 cents an hour. Chambers says his union has signed up a large number of road department employees.

Democrat Peace Doves Face Death at Hands of Cook

WASHINGTON. (AP)—The hotel where senate Democrats recently held a harmony dinner decided today to give the gate to a couple of hangers-on—the party peace doves.

"They're beginning to cause trouble," said Manager C. C. Shiffler. "We've had them in the kitchen ever since the dinner, and the chef is getting tired of them."

The two birds—which were released in the banquet hall when the dinner was at its gayest—were supposed to have been the white symbols of new found peace among the senators.

Shiffler said he has been having a hard time restraining the chef from converting the star boarders into an inspiration called dove pie a la Democrat.

"I keep telling him they're peace doves," explained the manager, "and he keeps telling me they're feast doves."

Rather than turn them over to the chef, Shiffler has decided to hold a little ceremony on the roof and turn them out upon the world.

Shiffler said he wants to tie some sort of message to their legs, but has been unable to think up an appropriate one.

"I'd appreciate any suggestion," he added.

Incidentally, on close inspection the doves have turned out to be white pigeons.

The manager said that was the closest he could come to peace doves in the capital.

WIDEN SEARCH FOR KIDNAPER

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Search for William O. Johnson, accused of kidnapping the baby son of the woman who spurned his marriage suit, extended to Iowa today.

Fearful that 10-month-old Billy Carr might be harmed, Mrs. Peggy Carr, in tears, signed a complaint against her former suitor.

"He phoned me Aug. 9 that he was taking the baby to Burlington, Iowa, where he lived," the comely blonde told Deputy District Attorney H. Leslie Wildey.

"I begged him not to, but he told me I had better leave him alone or it would be too bad for me and the baby."

Afraid of Johnson's temper, Mrs. Carr said she delayed a week reporting her son's disappearance, hoping that he would be returned.

JIMMY WALKER GETS NEW JOB

NEW YORK. (AP)—James J. Walker, who resigned under fire in 1932, as mayor virtually was assured today of a lifetime city pension estimated at between $12,000 and $15,000 annually.

The Democratic-controlled transit commission appointed him assistant commission counsel yesterday—just two weeks before a five-year absence from the city payroll would have disqualified him for a pension. His new job pays $12,000 a year.

Commissioner Reuben L. Haskell said the vote to appoint Walker was unanimous.

In his new position Walker, who has been living quietly on a Long Island duck farm, will direct the transit commission's activities in eliminating grade crossings in New York City.

DEFEAT FOR M'ADOO IS ADVOCATED

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Defeat of Senator William Gibbs McAdoo in 1938 was advocated today by a fellow Californian, Representative Byron N. Scott of Long Beach.

Recent removal of Pierson M. Hall as United States attorney for Southern California brought caustic comment from Scott who accused McAdoo of allowing his law partner, William H. Neblett, control over patronage.

Scott said Hall's removal and appointment of Benjamin Harrison of San Bernardino as his successor was a "typical" example of Neblett's control over patronage.

The representative asserted McAdoo should be defeated for reelection unless he "strips" Neblett "of his power over state politics and political appointments."

"I have seen the results of Neblett's power in California politics," said Scott in a formal statement, "and I don't like them. This firing of Pierson Hall is typical."

Comment by Scott was the first "on the record" by any member of California's congressional delegation since Hall's removal.

MOTHER, BABY OUT OF DANGER ZONE

Pair Saved By 'Lung' Rest at Hospital

A mother and newly-born baby daughter were out of the danger zone at the Santa Ana Valley hospital today after their lives were saved by one of the new automatic breathing machines.

Hospital attaches told The Journal that both mother and baby were "doing nicely" today after their narrow brush with death. Mrs. D. G. MacDougall, 25, wife of the state district highway superintendent who lives at Doheny Park, is the young mother who, with her prematurely born baby, was saved by the modern apparatus.

The baby, weighing five pounds, 10 1/2 ounces, was born a month and a half too early. Mrs. MacDougall was stricken Saturday afternoon while shopping in a downtown store. She was rushed to the hospital where her physician, Dr. Paul Esslinger, Capistrano, performed an emergency operation. The hospital had just received the new resuscitator and inhalator, and the lives of mother and daughter were saved with the use of the device.

WIDELY USED
The machine used in the case is a modern apparatus which today is widely used in hundreds of medical institutions.

The equipment is a combination of automatic breathing machine and simple inhalation device. Patients who have become asphyxiated and are unable to breathe may look to this apparatus to supply automatic respiration at almost human rate and depth until the cause has been eliminated.

Many times, physicians explained, when babies are born certain vital functions of the body do not operate properly. One of these functions is respiration. By using this device, breathing may be produced artificially, the baby receiving life-giving oxygen until the vital centers of the small brain have recovered from the shock of labor and are capable of carrying on this function.

REDUCES DEATH RATE
Local physicians said nobody knows exactly how many newborn babies die each year of asphyxia when their respiratory systems refuse to function. Best available estimates place the figure between 50,000 and 100,000 in the United States.

Science has simplified and changed the old-fashioned methods once employed in welcoming babies into the world when they failed to draw their first deep breath. This new device is now used to bring these babies over the borderline, and has done much to reduce the rate of infant mortality and morbidity. It also has been used to resuscitate adults.

Recognized after more than a year by the man who accuses him of issuing a fraudulent check, Claude Wendel Fowler, Anaheim insurance salesman, pleaded guilty to the charges in Orange justice court today before Justice Cal D. Lester.

Fowler waived preliminary hearing, and was held to answer in superior court. Bail was set at $500, which he could not make at the time of the hearing.
The salesman was charged with cashing a check for $20 at an Orange clothing store May 11, 1936, using the name of Arnold Walter. Last Saturday Floyd G. Owings, proprietor of the store, saw Fowler in a cafe. Owings notified police, who arrested the man as he attempted to escape through the Orange theater.

REPORT 322 WELFARE CASES ADDED

Welfare cases here jumped 322 last month, according to a report to the board of supervisors today by Welfare Director Jack W. Snow, bringing the total to 2922 at the end of July.

Practically the entire increase, Snow explained, was due to old age security applications which were taken under investigation. Department administrative costs meanwhile dropped to a new low. For all types of administrative work the total cost was $2.36 per case, or 8.8 per cent of the total expended through the department. In June the cost was $2.59 per case, or 9.5 per cent of the total.

Old age security rolls reached 1590 as of July 31, Snow said, an increase of 119 in the approved old age rolls. There are now 473 children receiving orphan aid in Orange county, according to the report, an increase of five cases over the June total. Eight new blind aid cases were added during the month, bringing the state aid rolls here up to 59. A decrease of 17 in the number of unemployed cases receiving indigent relief brought the total down to 582, Snow told the board.

Coast Urges More Deputy Sheriffs

Sheriff Logan Jackson's plea for more deputies to patrol the county was backed up today by the South Coast Improvement association in a petition to the board of supervisors.

Twelve thousand persons live along the unincorporated coast area, the association said, and need 24-hour police protection. Four prowlers have been reported in the South Laguna area during the past few nights, it was said.

Within a period of 15 minutes, Daisaku Yoshida, 54, paid $70 and was free. Judge Chris P. Pann, sitting in court for Judge Kenneth E. Morrison, allowed the remaining $30 to be paid Tuesday, Aug. 24.

HOUSING PLAN GIVEN BOARD

Government plans for a low-cost housing program were laid before the board of supervisors today, and Supervisor Harry Riley promised a report within 30 days on the attitude of the state supervisors' association on miscellaneous work for seasonal employees.

Jules Markel of the county planning commission presented a roll of plans at the request of the Rev. Julia Budlong, and said the commission was interested in any approval the board might give the program.

Riley said the program might tie into recommendations of the state association for care of seasonal workers, with a program of reforestation, flood control and other work which would fill in the months between harvests for many thousands of itinerant families.

BOARD OPPOSES 'SECESSION'

Members of the board of supervisors don't think much of the idea of Orange county joining in a movement for Southern California to secede from the state of California.

At least, they paid little heed to a proposal broached to them in a letter received this morning from John M. Beatty, of Escondido.

Beatty sent a letter and a lengthy plan to the board, outlining what could be done if Southern California withdraws from the state and forms a new state of Southern California.

It is for the people of Southern California residing in the 10 southern counties to set up a new state government with its capital building located at the most ideal location in the southern part of the state, Beatty said.

LIGHT FETE PROCLAIMED BY OFFICIALS

Decorate Homes, Says Newport Beach Mayor

NEWPORT - BALBOA. — Officially paving the way for the 29th annual Tournament of Lights, slated for next Saturday evening, Harry Williamson, mayor, today urged decoration of all homes and boats at anchor as a part of the celebration.

Mayor Williamson and City Clerk Frank Rinehart both urged home owners to decorate both residences and private piers, to add to the beauty of the spectacular water parade, which annually draws more than 100,000 spectators to the harbor district.

Police Chief R. R. Rodgkinson pointed out today that traffic troubles of recent years will be overcome this year through the new $200,000 overhead crossing, completed this spring at The Arches, where Newport boulevard crosses Coast highway. In other years this bottleneck tied up traffic for several hours following the parade.

This year's traffic will probably be cleared out within a short time after the water festival ends, it was reported, due to the new method of handling traffic at the intersection and diverting streams of cars toward Santa Ana and other inland towns, Long Beach and Laguna Beach.

FIGHT 2 FIRES IN BAY AREA

NEWPORT - BALBOA. — Two fires which endangered homes were reported by members of the local fire department here yesterday, but both were controlled before serious damage resulted.

At the home of Mrs. Laura Scofield, 1704 Pacific drive, Coronado, an overheated stove ignited the wall of the home. Quick work on the part of firemen saved the home from extensive damage.

At the home of Mrs. Myra Newmark, 104 Onyx, Balboa Island, an overheated stove ignited the wall of the home. Quick work on the part of firemen saved the home from extensive damage.

HUNTINGTON BEACH. — Designed by Fred Brooks, Jr., Universal Pictures artist in Hollywood, and widely known Huntington Beach boy, the float to represent this city in the Balboa Tournament of Lights Saturday night will be the "Pied Piper of Hamelin Town." It is by far the most pretentious float design ever entered from Huntington Beach.

The Tournament of Lights float committee of the chamber of commerce is composed of Warren J. Bristol, J. S. Denny, Marcus Howard, Margaret Colvin, Anna May Mosier and W. J. Gallienne, secretary.

PEDESTRIANS GET WARNING

LAGUNA BEACH. — Police Chief Abe W. Johnson issued a warning to jay-walking pedestrians today, advising all afoot to use pedestrian lanes.

Citing the case of Guy Roberts, 4½-year-old son of the Roberts family, living at 409 South Coast boulevard, who was knocked down last week-end at Coast boulevard and Legion street, the chief pointed out that the responsibility of the motorist ceased when speed and caution regulations were observed.

Guy was unaccompanied by any adults when he was injured by a car driven by William V. Cummings, 1477 North Raymond, Pasadena. Cummings unavoidably struck the child, police reported, at a speed less than 15 miles per hour, outside of the pedestrian zone at that corner.

TWINS INVITED TO HUNTINGTON

HUNTINGTON BEACH. — Plans for staging the second annual Southern California twins convention at Huntington Beach were announced today by W. H. Gallienne, who said the huge affair will be held in conjunction with the annual Black Gold Days celebration Sept. 4, 5 and 6.

Last year more than 100 sets of twins attended the affair and were awarded a large number of prizes. This year's attendance list will be much greater, Gallienne said. Invitations already have been sent out to more than 300 sets of twins, he added.

The Black Gold Days festival is an annual honor to the oil industry in Huntington Beach and vicinity, and consists of shows, parades, exhibits and other programs of interest to the oil fraternity.

Most Mexican Ties Illegal

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—A favorite outdoor sport of Hollywood—Mexican elopement and marriage—is usually illegal, in the opinion of Amelio Gonzales and Jose Elias Castro, Mexican legal experts.

"Many of these Mexican weddings so popular with your movie players are illegal through their failure to comply with the domicile law," Gonzales testified yesterday in the trial of George Brent's suit to annul his Mexican marriage to Constance Worth, film actress.

"Unless one or both of the contracting parties is or was a resident of the republic, the marriage is null and void."

RUM DEAL FOR RUMPOTS TOLD

By ARTHUR CAYLOR
SAN FRANCISCO. (Special)—The better element among the city's rumpuses, toss-pots and barflies—people who like to get drunk in a nice way—are beginning to discover that they have been betrayed by a legislature which otherwise showed sufficient intelligence and discrimination in looking out for the interests of the upthap claususes.

The only explanation seems to be that the legislature was squiffed at the time and didn't realize what it was doing.

Anyhow, a law got passed which makes it impossible for the better hotels and clubs to run six or seven service bars, lounges and cocktail cathedrals at the price of one license. Instead, they must pay for each one—something which cuts into the profits so far that it's cutting out a lot of the bars and reducing service in a tear-inspiring way.

In some of the swank clubs, for instance, locker-room service has been suspended, and it's no longer possible for a man—in strenuous need of a quick one after a lot of exercise to get the alcohol out of his system—to have Heiny rush a restorative before he gets his clothes on.

This kind of thing doesn't affect the common people who get drunk in dives, joints, holes-in-the-wall and other places where one bar, with detached gutter, meets all the requirements.

Hence, it's obvious class legislation—the kind of thing which makes right-thinking people demand to know whether we are wending, if anywhere.

SEEK ORANGE SEWER PLANT

ORANGE. — Notice of the stand Orange has taken in regard to its desire to build a sewer treatment plant and withdraw from the out-fall sewer district has been sent to all cities of the district.

In a resolution adopted Friday, the Orange city council pointed out that they have determined it would be for the best interests of the city to withdraw from the district and build a separate plant.

The council has asked members of the district to enter into negotiations regarding the withdrawal, Councilman J. E. Riley said.

The state board of health already has issued a permit for erection of the disposal plant, Riley said. Whether or not Orange will be permitted to withdraw is still a question.

PIRATE DAYS FIESTA SLATED

NEWPORT - BALBOA. — Tentative plans for the annual White Pirate celebration for the harbor district will be discussed at a committee meeting this evening, Dick Torrance, chairman of the 20-30 club group in charge, announced today.

Other civic organizations have turned complete charge of the annual celebration over to the newly formed 20-30 group, of which George Bedome is president. In the two previous affairs, the entire program has been turned over to young folks of the harbor community, but possibilities of making this year's festival for residents of all ages will be discussed tonight.

Dates for the affair have been set for Sept. 4 and 5, Torrance said today.

Last year a pirate parade and many entertainment features drew large crowds of children to Balboa, where the program was held. A larger attendance, with a more extensive program has been planned for this year, it was reported.

Laguna Visitor Lands in Jail

LAGUNA BEACH. — William Lee Ross, animated, vigorous and 21, found boisterousness to the point of breaking cafe windows was hardly permissible even on week-end parties in Laguna Beach.

Cafe employees called the police Saturday night, after Ross, they said, couldn't resist the sound of tinkling glass.

Ross, who gave his address as 2537 Thirteenth avenue, Los Angeles, was jailed on charges of being drunk, disturbing the peace—and window breaking without the necessary authority of owning windows to be broken. He was released on $50 bail.

Many Swordfish Catches Bring Sportsmen to Harbor

NEWPORT - BALBOA. — Increased activity in the ranks of local "big game" fishermen was reported here today, following the report that five Marlin swordfish have been brought into the harbor within the past two days.

Preston Foster, well-known motion picture actor, came somewhere near setting a record when he hauled in a 186-pound Marlin in the short time of 59 minutes while fishing from his cruiser Zoa III.

Three large swordfish were brought in yesterday on the Na-teeka, piloted by Ed Gronendyke, while Mr. Schmidt, Balboa Island resident, brought in a 265-pound fish Sunday, landing his catch on light tackle after a battle of three hours 15 minutes.

Commercial fishermen reported today that the waters are virtually alive with swordfish, although they still fail to take the bait with any regularity. Many strikes have been reported, but the fish merely shake the bait from their mouths, Frank Knight of Balboa reported.

FARM CENTER PICNIC SET

All members are urged to attend and bring their families by the center presidents, Walter Schmid, Garden Grove; Herman Freese, Anaheim, and J. A. Baker, Cypress-Magnolia.

NEWPORT - BALBOA. — Local police today were attempting to trace a burglar who entered the home of Mrs. A. H. Richardson, 334 Buena Vista, some time yesterday and stole a diamond ring valued at about $600 and $20 in cash.

The thief entered through a rear door of the home, went directly to Mrs. Richardson's room and took the cash and ring, police reported, overlooking many other valuable articles.

Police also were checking another theft, reported by Walter Ficklen, Orange, who said someone had entered his boat Foam anchored near Lido Isle and took a radio, a compass and other articles. The thieves broke a lock on the craft to gain entrance.

Raising government revenue by the transaction tax method is a new idea to the general public and is not thoroughly understood by its opponents. Business men would more quickly grasp its possibilities if called a turn-over tax for that is what it really is. The business world has long talked in terms of turn-over. The more rapid the business turn-over the larger are the profits on the capital invested. When the business men of the nation come to understand that the Townsend advocated transaction tax is only another name for a turn-over tax, they will become eager to have the Townsend plan enacted into law. They will be for it because of its power to swell their profits and create a stability to prosperous business conditions. This turn-over tax money placed in a revolving fund as advocated by the Townsend plan movement and continuously circulated through the channels of trade is what will make the desired rapid turn-over in business possible.

The Dow-Jones statistical concern, one of the leading organizations of its kind in the nation has published a statement that "In October, 1929, a deposit of $1.00 in a New York bank was being used fast enough to do $132.70 of work in a year. In October (1934) the same dollar was being called upon to do annual work of only $22.50." For these same two years, "The World Almanac" gives these figures as to bank deposits. In 1929 the total of all deposits in all the banks of the nation were approximately $55 and a quarter billion of dollars, whereas in 1934 the same banks had on deposit not quite $42 billion. The same source of information gives the national income as $4 billion dollars for 1929 as in comparison to approximately $42 billion in 1934. When the figures for these two years are compared it will be seen that the difference in national income could not be attributable to the volume of money in the banks of the nation. But figures do make plain that when money is circulating rapidly the national income is high and when it is slow it is low. This has been reduced that the income of the nation is correspondingly lower. These figures make evident that an abundant supply of money in the banks of the nation do not necessarily mean good times. It is circulation of money among the business concerns and in the hands of the people for spending purposes that makes prosperity possible.

This article has attempted to show that the revolving feature of the Townsend plan when in operation, will result in an abundant and constant supply of money being forced through the channels of the nation's trade. The transaction tax money paid into the United States treasury by business for the payment of old age annuities will flow out into the business life of the nation to be spent again within a few days after having been first paid out as a turn-over tax. When once this method of circulating money has been established in the nation by the enactment of the Townsend plan into law, the cash registers of business men will ring with a steadiness never before known. The writer repeats the revolving transaction tax principle of the Townsend plan is but another name for a turn-over tax. It will produce the prosperity now desired by business men and bring recovery of opportunity to every citizen of the nation.

CITIES WILL GIVE MWD
$188,893.48Report on Tax Total
Filed With Council

Official notice of how much money three Orange county cities will contribute toward expenses of the Metropolitan Water District during the next fiscal year is in hands of city officials today.

As reported in an exclusive article in The Journal Saturday, the new fiscal year is 40 cents per $100 assessed valuation. This is an increase of three cents over the rate in effect during the past fiscal year.

Levying of this 40-cent tax means that the three cities, Santa Ana, Anaheim and Fullerton, which are members of the MWD, will pay out a grand total of $188,893.48 during the year as their share of the expenses.

Santa Ana's share in the total expense will be $96,969.87, it was announced. Fullerton will pay $55,367.75 and Anaheim's cost will be $36,555.86.

These figures were received last night by the Santa Ana city council, which referred the matter to the finance committee.

The increase of three cents in the tax rate levied by the MWD board of directors was made necessary in order to cover interest charges on the additional amounts being invested in construction work. The district's tax levy is distributed among its 13 member cities, and each city's share of the levy is in proportion to its assessed valuation.

In the first event of the Orange County Motorcycle club's hill climb held at the Santa Ana city park Sunday, Gil Rathbun, of Riverside, won the event in 21.8 seconds to win the event. Bob Keller, Glendale, came in second in 22.5 seconds and Al Louwing of Santa Ana, making 21.5 feet, 9 inches, did not go over the top, but won third.

Sam Parriott of Puente took the second event by setting a record by going over the top in 14.6 seconds. Dewey Bonkrud, Santa Ana, came in second with 22.3 feet. Bruce Pearson of Los Angeles took third with 22.1 feet, 5 inches.

The main event, composed of the seven event of one and two, was won again by Sam Parriott, in going over in 18.4 seconds. Glen Rathbun, who took the first event, came in second, going over in 19.5 seconds. Bob Keller came in third with 23.8 feet, 7 inches.

Detailed plans for the event have not yet been worked out, but a special committee will meet Thursday morning to decide on the general theme of the event. Merchants at the meeting yesterday decided against remaining open evenings.

Enthusiastic reports on the outstanding success of Dollar Day, staged Saturday, were made at the meeting.

Tentative dates for the gala fall opening and style show were set by members of the retail division of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce at a meeting yesterday.

Dates tentatively set are Sept. 22, 23, 24 and 25. The colorful four-day event will mark the official local opening of the fall merchandising season.

Football season can't be far away when Bronzed Bill Cook lays down his rod and reel, and begins combing the county for grid prospects. . . His Southern California champion Dubs will be suited within three weeks at junior college.

Jovial Joe Rodgers, the newspaperman's friend who keeps the National Nightball league alive with the abundant color, airs a few softball views in a letter from Long Beach. See Joe:

"Jack Dugan has never beaten Huntington Beach, so he has something to shoot at with Santa Ana. I think he is a dandy pitcher and a fine boy. Stan Jacobsmeier is my idea of a swell kid and wish him all the luck in his forestry course at the University of California.

"Some of the youngsters on the Stars' team laugh when they strike out. Did you ever see any of my Ollers do that? It grips them. I like to see a player take this to heart, show some spirit, fight and the will to win.

"Three players would make Orange a very dangerous team. 'Memphy' Hill has done wonders with what he has.

"San Bernardino could be more dangerous by shifting a couple of players and benching a couple in nightball in Bob Fowler. They work the kid hard and then expect him to pitch winning ball at night. But Fowler isn't squawking.

"I called the shot, Westminster over Anaheim last Friday, 2-1. Sonny Rodgers and Penhall's other youngsters are coming, and if the season were a bit longer, they would be very troublesome. Rudy Heman is still a fine pitcher.

"Get me straight, Paul. I don't care about that trading by Anaheim, Santa Ana and Westminster. My Ollers still can beat all of them, even with the strength of the last-minute trades.

"Do you think the Shaughnessy playoff winner will be the real champion—or the team that ends on top at the end of the regular season, Aug. 22? Personally, Joe, I believe a REAL champion will be able to survive the Shaughnessy playoff. Otherwise, the team is a champion in NAME only, right?"

Rodgers has fired a series of interesting questions which this department will attempt to answer in tomorrow's Journal.

VANDERMAST'S WINS, 17-0

Montgomery Ward's crack team, which won consecutive honors at the Anaheim softball tournament for 250 boys, went to pieces at the Municipal bowl yesterday to lose to The Register's nine, 18 to 7.

The Journal's carriers also had an off day, as Vanderma's powerful team bewildered them, 17 to 0, in the preliminary.

Games Thursday Night
Elks vs. Commercial National Bank.
Carpenters vs. Grand Central Market.

By FRANK GUTHRIE
If Harold Youel can repeat his masterful one-hit pitching exhibition of last night against the Elks' potential second-half champions Thursday, then Manager Ken Miller's nine will have to figure on the same method it used last night against the Commercial National Bankers in coming out on top, 2-1. The win enabled the lodgemen to maintain their slim lead in the City Softball league.

Although the nightcap was a pitching duel between Youel and Leo Anderson, the first game of the double-header between Montgomery Ward's and M. E. South saw Hurler Walt Jordan of the first-half titlists display an effective brand of chucking, limiting the Mustangs to four bingles—all in the last of the seventh—while his fellow blasters turned out a 17-1 victory at the expense of three moundmen.

SCOTT RAPS LINER

Earl Conaway's costly error of Darwin Scott's brilliant liner in the first was the give-away score which enabled the B. P. O. E.'s to make the most of their lone hit by Roger Dominguez, first up in the frame, who scored. The winning run was marked up in the second on a walk to Ray Short, "Mickey" Walker's infield out and an infield hit by Ralph Barnes to Jesse Ojeda, who pegged too late to nip Short on the base.

Anderson was hit freely those five times, but his two decisive strike-outs in the seventh with the bases bulging, plus timely assistance by his mates in the clutches, continued the leaders' winning ways. The punch which scores runs was decidedly lacking in the Elks' offense.

"Red" Gundersen doubled for Commercial's first hit in the fourth, scoring on Earl Conaway's nicely placed pinch single into right after the count had reached two and three on him. But Anderson, Aug. 22, personally, Joe, I believe a REAL champion will be able to survive the Shaughnessy playoff. Otherwise, the team is a champion in NAME only, right?"

Cecil Howe Travis always could hit.

As a little fellow, he would bat rocks all over his father's Georgia cotton fields when he was supposed to be chopping cotton. Ever since, Cecil has had confidence in his ability to connect.

Travis set his heart on a big league baseball career. His parents could do nothing to change his mind. When they advised him to go to college he promptly balked, insisting he was going to play ball.

Seeing that the youth would not change his plans, his parents gave their permission. Cecil enrolled in a baseball school that Kid Eberfeld and Tubby Walton were conducting in Atlanta.

"What can you do?" Eberfeld inquired of the young hopeful.

"I think I can hit," Travis replied.

"Well, sir, recalled Walton, recently, 'when he started massaging the tomato with all the skill of a finished product I knew we had found a real embryonic star.'

In 1931 Chattanooga signed Travis. His heavy bat had much to do with the Lookouts winning a Southern League pennant and going on to triumph in the Dixie series.

Travis hit .362 his first full season in organized ball. Toward the end of the 1933 campaign Travis was sold to Washington. He hit at a luster pace, but his fielding was not up to the big league standard. He was declared out as a third baseman but shifted to short when the Senators found themselves in need of a short fielder today. But he can hit, and if he continues at the rate his fellow blasters turned out a 17-1 victory at the expense of three moundmen.

S. D. INVADES SACRAMENTO

Padres' Small Lead Threatened By Sacs

San Diego's Padres invaded Sacramento today for a seven-game series which will have an important bearing on the Pacific Coast Baseball league leadership.

The Padres held a game and a half lead over Sacramento after the two split a four-game series at San Diego last week. Manager Bill Killefer predicted his Senators would be on top by the end of the week.

In third place, the improving Los Angeles club stands a good chance of fattening its percentage by entertaining the weakened Seattle Indians. Portland, which seems to have folded its tent after a desperate bid for a spot in the first division, opens against the San Francisco Missions in the Bay City tonight.

Portland squeezed into third place, but was promptly kicked down into fifth place by the Angels, who took five straight from the Beavers last week.

Oakland's A's, who won a three-game series from San Diego and three out of four from the Missions last week, play hosts this week to the fourth-place San Francisco Seals.

Manager Lefty O'Doul of the Seals said he hoped Al Wright and young Ted Jennings would be back in the lineup this week. They have been on the casualty list.

NEW YORK. (AP)—A smart lad up in the Bronx parlayed $10 on the Athletics in the recent Yankee series and made himself a cool $600. . . . New York news-reel audiences applaud Tommy Farr's picture. . . . Walter Hagen's pals say he is all set for a great golf comeback when he comes back from Australia or wherever he is. . . . You can laugh at the Cincinnati Reds all you like, but they may have a lot to say about who wins the National league pennant race. . . . Latest semi-official dope is that Bobby Riggs, the California youngster, can count himself in for No. 2 tennis spot—right behind Don Budge. . . . (which is just what Budge has been contending all along.)

Marcel Thil, the French middleweight, is completely bald. . . . A western school has its eye on smart old Bill Alexander of Georgia Tech (but doubts if it can lure him away). . . . Also more than one college is watching Lawrence Spearman, new assistant coach at Little Davidson, whose Chester (S. C.) High teams lost only four games in nine years. . . . Harry Smith, veteran sports editor of the San Francisco Chronicle, is back from a jaunt to Europe and will stay here until after Louis and Farr do their stuff. . . . Farr was Jack Dempsey's luncheon guest yesterday. . . . He looks like a million dollars and talks that kind of fight.

There will be plenty doing in baseball circles this winter—more shakups than you can shake a stick at. . . . Lots of baseball men smiled when General Manager Walter O'Connell denied that story the Cincinnati Reds would be made over. . . . Ho hum, Jack Dempsey is planning another white hope tournament. . . . Gosh! . . . Mike Jacobs is a cutie, all right. . . . One of the provisions of his deal with Madison Square Garden was that the Garden wouldn't sue him for breaking its contract with Jimmy Braddock. . . . Charleston, W. Va., has a dead ringer for Joe Louis so far as fighting style is concerned in Andrew Roy, a promising waterweight, who has been cleaning up in that locality. . . . HORACE SEARS GETS HOMER FOR WINNERS

Second Playoff Tilt Booked for Lagier's Park Thursday Night

Rudy Montgomery, veteran hitter of Brea's Lions, was good enough to fan 11 of Irvine's heavy artillery in the first game of the title playoff series at Brea last night, but Irvine won, 8-6, and held the edge in hits, 1-0. . . . It was the largest crowd of the season to witness a county league contest. Both clubs are finalists in a four-out-of-five-game playoff.

From all indications, Brea can still be counted in the series and may upset Ernie Lagier's defending champs at Irvine Thursday night.

Both clubs were jittery in the first five innings with 10 errors being chalked up, but with the pressure off, Brea and Irvine settled down to playing a fine brand of ball.

BREA ERRS TWICE
Two errors by Brea in the second allowed one score, as Lagier's team tallied three times on three hits. LeRoy (Chub) Sears singled to short, and Ray Hapes' hit to second, with both runners advancing on a passed ball. Merle Hapes then sent Sears home with a long fly to left, with Hugh Salisbury bringing home another on his hit to center. An error on Ray Hodgson's hit made it 3-0.

Evans and Hodgson were safe on errors in Brea's half of the third. Willard Bath was out to second, with "Red" Bath's bunt enabling Hodgson to tally. Winfield Pepper walked and Bob Snell got his first of three hits, bringing in two more scores. Montgomery's fly to center put the final run across.

Irvine went ahead in the sixth by three runs after scoring once in the fifth. Salisbury led off with a double to center. Fitcher hit DeBusk fanned Dwight Ahern's double to center and George Padias' second bunt in front of the plate filled the sacks. Horace Sears won the major contest, turned the trick with a long one into center.

A score by Brea in the eighth threatened to knot the count. Snell singled sharply to center, but Brea failed to stop it for a fluke "four-bagger."

Irvine nipped a budding Brea rally in the seventh when Merle Hapes took a dive to knock down Pepper's drive and then tossed to second, forcing "Red" Bath. Padias completed the play, doubling Pepper at first.

Brea kept the score down with a double play in the fourth. Merle Hapes had singled to center before Thompson trapped him at first, after catching Salisbury's line drive.

Tommy Farr May Save John Bull's Face

SPORT SLANTS

By TOM (PAP) PAPROCKI

Maybe Tommy Farr will save John Bull's face by whipping Joe Louis and taking the world heavyweight title to Great Britain. He most probably won't.

In recent international contests J. B. has fared poorly indeed against your Uncle Samuel.

The Ryder cuppers started it all when they invaded England, upped a highly-touted British team headed by Henry Cotton, and scored the first victory on foreign soil recorded by either golf team in the series.

Then along came red-headed Don Budge and his tennis troupe. Don made a clean sweep of the Wimbledon courts, winning the singles and playing a major part in winning men's and mixed doubles. That sweep at Wimbledon forecast the outcome of the Davis cup challenge round. . . . Budge & Co. (the Co. in this instance meaning Gene Mako and Frankie Parker) took the Davis cup by defeating the British, 4-1.

The most humiliating defeat came in T. O. M. Sopwith's unsuccessful challenge for the America's cup. His Endeavour II proved no match for the Ranger, skippered by Harold Vanderbilt. So convincing was the four-straight lacing meted out by the Ranger that there is little likelihood of any other brave soul venturing out of England with a challenge for a long time to come.

England did score a couple of minor triumphs when the combined Oxford-Cambridge track and field teams scored over picked teams from Yale-Harvard and Princeton-Cornell, but these were offset by the victory of Robert Sweeney, an American residing in London, in the British amateur golf championship.

There is a possibility that Britain may recoup a bit of her athletic prestige when the British and American lasses meet on the tennis courts to decide the Wimbledon cup matches. But without their ace, Dorothy Round, in the lineup, the British can hardly hope to cope with the strong American team that will defend the trophy.

Youth may be served most of the luscious sports dishes but it is mighty difficult to keep the veterans from shoving an occasional finger into the pie.

Take 38-year-old Charlie Root, for example. Right now, Charlie is doing more than his share to keep the Cubs in the thick of the pennant race. When the Cub hurling staff was riddled with injuries earlier in the season, it was Root who did yeoman's work to keep the team above water.

When the Cubs and Giants squared off at the Polo grounds in their recent "crucial" series, it was Uncle Charlie who started the Cubs off on the right foot. Root took up the burden of beating King Carl Hubbell in the series opener after the Giants had gotten off to a flying start with a couple of runs off Curt Davis in two-thirds of the first inning.

There were counting Root out last winter. His 1936 record showed only three victories against six defeats. Charlie didn't pay much attention to his obituaries.

BRITISH SCRIBES LIKE FARR BUT STRING WITH LOUIS

By SCOTTY RESTON

LONDON. (AP)—There's a suspicion in Britain that maybe it's just as well that the future of the Empire doesn't depend on Tommy Farr. Which is to say that, if Joe Louis mangles him August 26, the common-wealth will be braced for the hook. If it isn't braced, it won't be the fault of the British sports writers. They have spent much time and many shillings looking at the pictures of the look-alike Braddock fight, and though generally inclined to let their patriotism get in the way of their judgment in decisions of this kind, they are picking Louis.

"Nice fellow, Tommy, courageous and all that sort of thing, but he really can't attack, can he?" they say. The critics don't believe their boy is good enough to stay 15 rounds with Louis without getting hit too many times.

There also is a tendency here to regret Tommy's recent eloquence. It's all very well for Farr to make a hit in America, but what Britain wants to know is, "is it dignified?"

Tommy's been quoted as saying he wants to win so he can have a family and his opinions on the old school tie have been printed. Ordinarily, one just doesn't have public opinions on having a family or on the old school tie!

One of the more constant contributors to the London papers and also one of the few who favor Farr is Ted Broadbribb, Farr's manager.

Broadbribb is enthusiastic about Farr's chances and he's positively un-British in his enthusiasm for America. In one of his recent epics he pumped himself into a great flight of eloquence and concluded on this immortal note:

"Long live Long Branch, New Jersey! Long live Mike Jacobs!" Officially, there is a definite tendency to minimize the importance of the bout, but even the past record of British heavyweight contenders can't discourage the average British boxing fan.

The British board of boxing control does not recognize Louis as champion, so that Tommy would be just the American champion here were he to beat Louis.

There's no doubt, however, that he would be the popular champion. Special boats are carrying many British fans to New York for the bout and even London's restaurants are carrying cabled stories of Tommy's training activities on the backs of their menus.

Modestly revealing one of his latent talents, inventing, Ed Lowry will let listeners in on his latest achievement, the "Go-Backer," when another session of "Sing Time" takes to the air on KVOE and the Mutual-Don Lee network tonight from 7 to 7:30.

"Just a twist of the wrist," says Lowry, "and the 'Go-Backer' will bring to life the speeches, actions, and even thoughts of our ancestors."

Analytically inclined, Lowry will also endeavor to explain the origin of the many stock phrases that clutter up our conversation, such as "How's tricks," and "What's new."

JACOBSMEYER LEAVES S. A. AFTER TEST

Westminster Travels To Orange, Anaheim To San Bernardino

Stan Jacobsmeyer, the piano-legged collegian who came down from Riverside to pitch Santa Ana into the Shagnessy softball playoffs, bids farewell to Manager "Doc" Smith's Stars tonight.

Down at Huntington Beach at 8:30, Stan plans to send his faithful runner into his last start against Joe Rodgers' Southern California defending champions. It will be a strenuous assignment for Jacobsmeyer, but he turned the trick on the last visit to the Oilers' lair, 8 to 4.

The Stars believe Stan can do it again tonight.

Other attractions will send Westminster's surprising Aviators to Orange, and Anaheim's fourth-place Valencia to San Bernardino. Anaheim also has a protested game to replay with San Bernardino, but it is unlikely a doubleheader will be held tonight. Officials of the two clubs, however, must replay the game before the end of the regular season next Tuesday.

Jack Dugan, now installed as the right-hander who will lead Santa Ana into the Shagnessy playoffs for the four top teams, will be ready to relieve Jacobsmeyer tonight.

Frank (Chico) Sabella, who has shut out the Stars on two occasions this year, will be on the ridge for Rodgers' king-pins. Bill McKinley has been transferred from Taft to Long Beach, and will be available at third base for the rest of the season. Francis Conrad will play shortstop until Manager Rodgers recovers from a rib injury that has benched him for most of the week.

Santa Ana's lineup will be identical to the one that blanked San Bernardino, 4-0, here last Friday with the exception of the pitchers. The batting order: Bob Schwarm, lf; Fred Wiemer, cf; "Doc" Smith, 2b; Joe Wallin, c; Nan Coats, rf; Charles Comstock, ss; Bob Motz, 1b; Tom Young, 3b, and Jacobsmeyer, p.

ASSOCIATED PRESS PICTURE NEWS

THUNDER OVER SHANGHAI. Troops, guns and marching men of many nations rattled in increasing tempo down Shanghai's streets as that international city of the Far East with 3,000,000 residents . . . 3,000 Americans among them . . . seemed caught in the deadly Sino-Japanese conflict. Japan's mighty warships filled the harbor and Japanese bluecoats unloaded tons of munitions. These American troops at Shanghai were prepared for "any eventuality."

OFF WATER WAGON. Bill Duncan and many another Dallasite screwed up their faces when they tried to drink algae-laden city water during the heat wave.

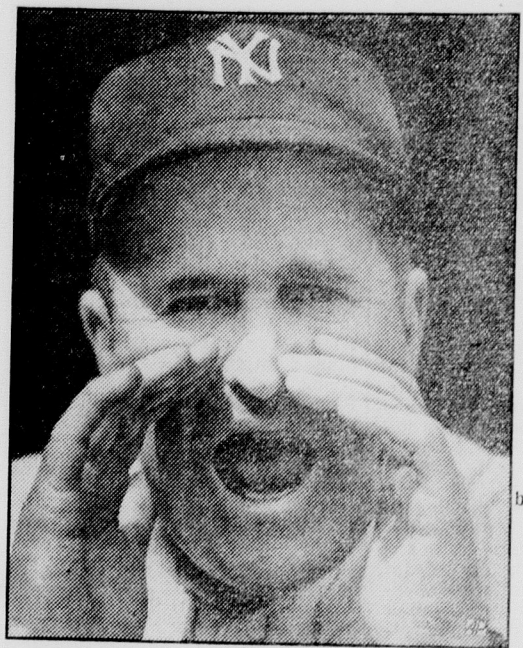

HERE'S ONE HE DIDN'T CATCH. If you've been laboring under the impression a baseball catcher has nothing to do but stand behind the batter and catch the ball, take a look at this tangle at Boston. Catcher Desautels of the Red Sox is lunging desperately to tag George Selkirk, but the Yankee was called safe. Desautels, however, didn't agree with the umpire and argued so long and lustily over the play, he was finally removed from the game.

SPOTLIGHT

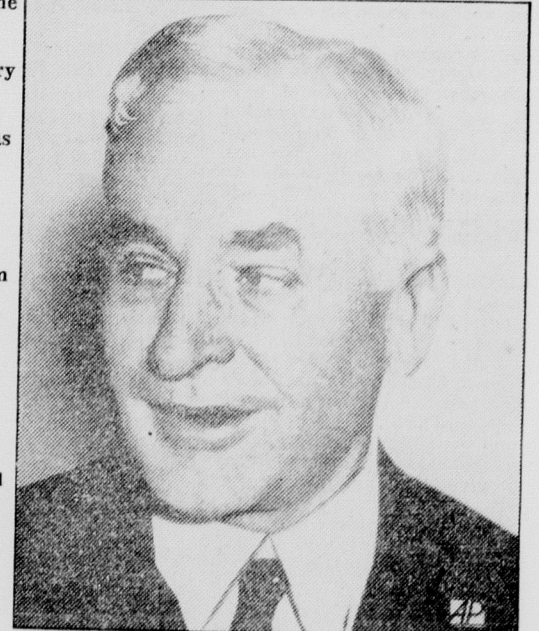

"Peas in a pod" they say of Daphnee (left) and Marita Sylva, twins of Mme. Marguerita Sylva, opera star. Like their mother, they chose stage careers. Their most recent vehicle was Owen Davis' "Two Time Mary" presented by a theater group at Lakewood, Me.

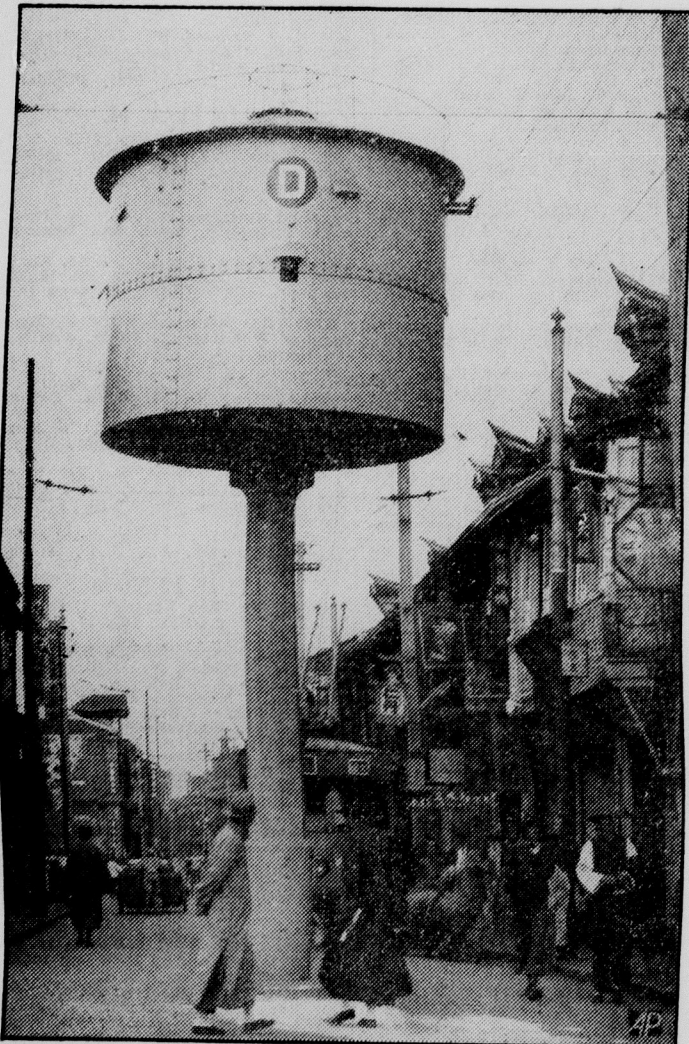

Yelling makes Joe McCarthy hoarse, but when the boss of New York's Yankees wants a home run he's gotta holler. The frequency of base circuits by the Bronx bombers recently has given Joe an almost chronic case of sore throat.

Praise and blame fell on the ears of Secretary of State Cordell Hull as he proposed leasing six over-age destroyers from the navy to Brazil for training ships. Argentinian and German newspapers and some congressmen took issue with the plan.

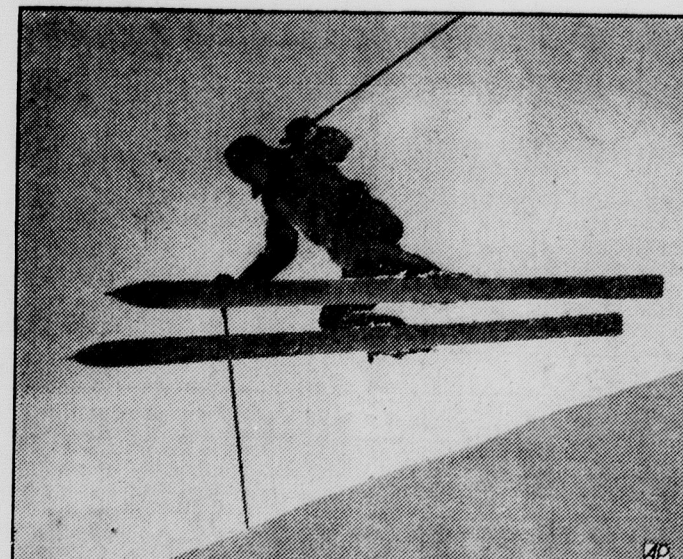

Mary T. Norton, New Jersey's congress-lady, keeps secrets. When her male colleagues couldn't restrain themselves from revealing details of the wage and hour bill, she kept shushed until radio time and then proceeded to broadcast full details.

WAR'S TRAFFIC SIGNAL. Over the peaceful scene, with its tinkling chimes, waving banners and kimonoed men, stands this machine gun tower at an intersection in a Shanghai native quarter. Normally the turret is manned by police of the Chinese city, but in times of recent Sino-Japanese outbreaks, they have been manned by Japanese. These forts protect the international settlement.

BUOY, WAS HE SCARED! Thirteen-year-old Paul Tugend was somewhat worried—even downright scared—when coastguards pulled him in a breeches buoy from an island near Buffalo, N. Y. He was marooned with two other lads by a stream, flooded from a broken dam. He managed to bring part of his model airplane with him in the rescue.

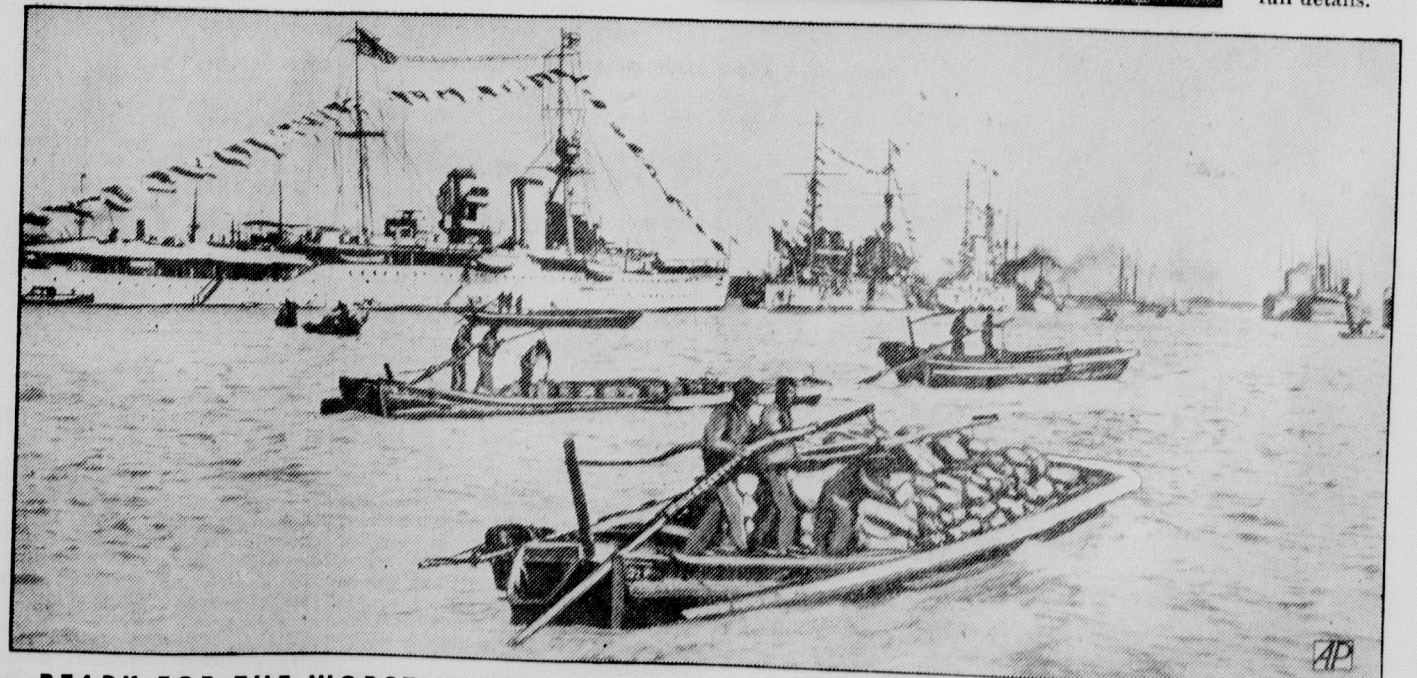

FLYING FEET. Here's a skilled Australian skier taking off during a swift descent on a mountainside at Kosciusko, N.S.W.

F.D.R.'S SURPRISE. President Roosevelt surprised the senate by nominating one of its own members, Hugo L. Black of Alabama, to the supreme court. Here is the wiry senator at his desk in the role for which he is famed—a vigorous examiner of witnesses. He began his career as a small town lawyer, later going to Birmingham when a fire destroyed his office.

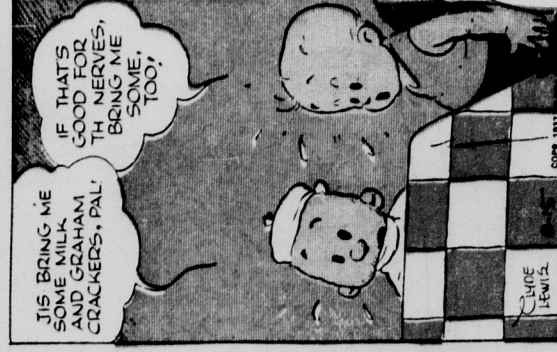

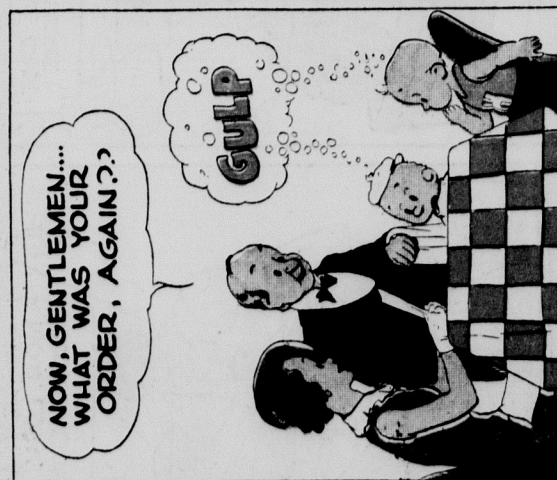

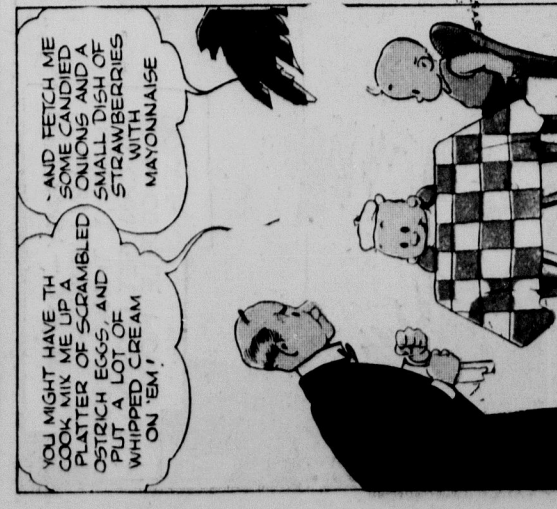

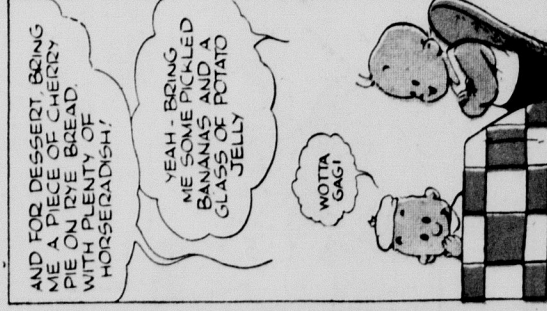

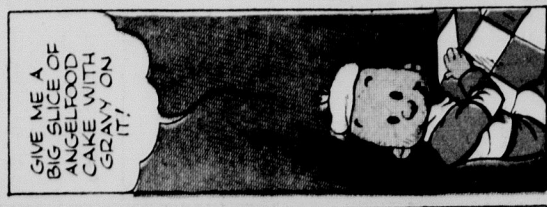

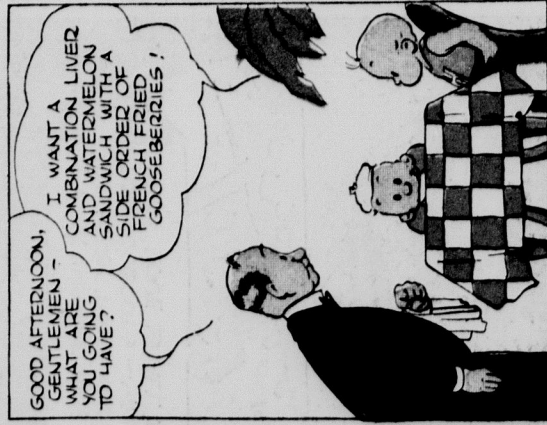

THE CITY WITHIN A CITY. Americans and other foreign citizens living in Shanghai fled by hundreds into the international settlement (above), seeking the protection of American marines, 1,050 strong, and garrisons maintained by other powers which were mobilized for the "worst." Armed forces of both nations poured by thousands into the Chinese seaport. Panic gripped the native populace. Streets and alleys were choked with fleeing residents of the Chapei and Kiangwang areas.

READY FOR THE WORST IN CHINA. Shanghai's harbor was clogged with warships of Japan carrying cargoes of thousands of marines and tons of munitions. In the port, too, were ships of foreign nations ready to protect their nationals in any eventuality and expecting "the worst." Sino-Japanese peace efforts apparently were doomed; both nations seemed to be concentrating troops in the Shanghai area. This is "battleship row," the almost perpetual guard of war boats in Shanghai harbor.

HE United States was at war with Mexico. Maj. Gen. Winfield Scott, with 2,000 men, was advancing from Vera Cruz to Mexico City. In September, 1847, the Americans came to the foot of Chapultepec Hill, atop which stood the fortified castle of the unfortunate Maximilian. A rocky, wooded hill, it was the last can capital, pleasure ground of the great Montezuma II, before the arrival of Hernando Cortez, this natural fortress now faced its greatest test. As approached, the cadets of the military college nearby sought refuge in the more fortified castle. Greatly outnumbered, inexperienced and still in their teens, the young Mexicans fought desperately.

Quickly, however, they fell before the bitter fire of the invaders, until only five of the young-sters remained. Rather than surrender, they were all killed. One after the other, they leaped from the highest turret.

The last, standing defiantly on the edge of the cliff, wrapped a Mexican flag about him and hurled it into the air. In honor of Mexico was upheld. Chapultepec was taken, Mexico was conquered and brought to terms, but today the "Boy Heroes of Chapultepec" are honored in their memory. Another memorial is the Mexican stamp of 1923, picturing the castle, now a public museum, which they defended.

SANTA ANA W S STATE CONVENTION

WILL SPEED UP LOCAL
BUS SERVICEThree Routes To Get
15-Minute Trips

Sept. 13 will be a lucky day for Santa Anans who commute to and from their downtown offices or stores on buses.

On that day C. H. Eckles, operator of the Santa Ana Bus Service, will put into effect a new schedule of bus service, using two more buses and offering 15-minute service in the busy morning and afternoon hours.

Last night he applied to the city council for approval of the additional schedule. These two buses will run half-way between the present half-hour schedules, making 15 minute service during the two peak periods of travel, early morning and late afternoon.

Eckles said he has been keeping a passenger count and that the exact schedules will depend on findings of the count.

The new service will cover the three old routes, the South Main, the North Broadway and the West Second street routes. The present runs on South Birch and East Fourth will continue as at present, with half-hour service.

Free transfer privileges will prevail as at the present time on all five runs, with the same five-cent fare.

The council referred the matter to the taxi commission, comprised of Police Commissioner Plummer L. Bruns, Street Commissioner Ernest H. Layton, Chief of Police Floyd W. Howard and City Attorney L. W. Blodgett.

Leaving the Good Earth

These high-stepping young Japanese, undergoing training as aviators, pilots and mechanics, prepare to join the air force participating in the Chinese expedition. The flying school is located on the beach near Tokyo.

BUSY SEASON
JUST AHEAD
FOR MAYORRowland to Return
From Trip This Week

Mayor Fred C. Rowland was expected to return to Santa Ana today or tomorrow, and when he gets back he will be plunged at once into city business.

He has been on a vacation trip to Oregon for about the past month. Last night the city council decided to hold a special meeting for tomorrow night, and Mayor Rowland is expected to be here to attend the special session.

PAVING PROJECT
The special meeting was called to take care of urgent city business, including awarding of bids on the North Broadway paving job, setting the city tax rate and several other matters.

A report on a check of bids received on the Broadway paving job was submitted to the city council last night by City Engineer J. L. McBride. McBride said there were no changes in the figures as submitted in the bids when they were opened last Monday night.

Bids included work on a culvert at Fourth and Sycamore streets. Low bid of three submitted was by the Oswald Brothers contracting firm of Los Angeles. Its bid was $32,941.49.

TAX ORDINANCE
The Sully-Miller company of Long Beach bid $33,839.26, and Wells and Bressler of Orange county bid $39,429.90.

Broadway will be repaved from the south line of First street to the south line of Tenth street.

The council is expected to give final reading to an ordinance already given first reading, which sets the tax rate at $1.59, an increase of nine cents over last year.

Plans for the participation of Orange county 4-H club members in the approaching state convention of 4-H clubs will be made at this meeting. The state convention will be held at Davis Sept. 2 to 4.

The coming Los Angeles county fair also will be discussed and plans for sending entries of club projects will be made at this time. Orange county club entries took a very large number of first awards at this fair in 1936.

Dry Chief Talks
Here on Sunday

Speaking almost nightly to church rallies throughout the United States in an intensive campaign against the use of alcohol as a beverage, Col. Frank B. Ebbert, counselor of the Board of Temperance, is scheduled for an appearance in Santa Ana on Sunday.

Colonel Ebbert will speak in the First Methodist church Sunday morning at a special temperance service. "The Unfinished Battle" is the topic chosen by the temperance leader, who will reveal existing wet conditions and under repeal and outline the present educational program which forms the basis of the dry campaign.

Admits Guilt On
Check Charges

After pleading guilty to two counts of issuing checks with intent to defraud, Louis Maynard was yesterday certified to superior court, where he will answer to the charges Friday at 10 a. m.

Maynard pleaded guilty to the counts in justice court before Judge Chris P. Pann yesterday. His wife, Mildred, 23, is now in Orange county jail awaiting trial in superior court Friday on similar charges.

The two are charged with passing fraudulent checks to local grocers last December.

DELHI'S MUD PROBLEM TO BE STUDIEDCouncil Hears Of Impassable Streets

Delhi's streets will receive the personal attention of Street Commissioner Ernest H. Layton and City Engineer J. L. McBride some time this week.

Councilman Layton told the city council last night that he and McBride plan to make an inspection tour of the Delhi streets to see what can be done about them, what condition they are in and then determine how much money is available for improvements.

The announcement followed presentation of a petition circulated by Matt Lujan, unofficial "mayor" of Delhi, which last week asked the council to do something about the Delhi streets, declaring that they are impassable in the rainy season.

Councilman Joseph P. Smith asked Layton last night if his report would be ready before the next rainy season.

There has been some talk about Delhi seceding from the city of Santa Ana in an effort to get something done about the streets, but it is not believed that any direct action will take place along this line.

Auto Court Plan
Is Approved

Action on two planning matters was taken by the city council and city planning commission at meetings last night.

Application of V. J. Anderson, contractor and builder, for change of zoning from neighborhood business to apartments and auto courts on East First street, was approved.

Anderson is acting for the owner of the property, Eddie Baum. A public hearing on the matter was held last night, and when no objections were presented, the request was granted.

Regarding application of Ronald Shearman to construct a duplex at 918 West Pine street, the planning commission recommended to the council that the property be posted for special use. The council approved the recommendation, and set the date for public hearing on the application for Sept. 7.

Rabbit Project
Hits Barrier

Joseph W. Barlow may have some difficulty in securing permission from the city council to operate a commercial poultry yard at his home at 524 Virginia street.

Last night he applied to the city council for permission to operate the poultry yard, saying he wanted to keep about 50 rabbits. But members of the council decided to investigate the request, and named the city attorney and health officer as a committee to make the check.

Institute Hears
Universalists

Dr. C. W. Fawcett and W. H. Quant of the Universalist church at Riverside were the two main speakers at Sunday night's session of the Institute of Liberal Religion at the Unitarian church.

Both spoke on the needs of peace, and cited remedies to achieve that goal.

Arthur E. Briggs, lawyer, teacher, and dean of the Los Angeles law school, is to be the main speaker at next Sunday's session of the institute. His subject will be "Why I Am a Liberal."

Puts His Oar In

Pondering the constitutionality of the nation's laws is all very well during most of the year, but in summer Supreme Court Justice Harlan F. Stone prefers to row his fisherman's dory about the bay at his summer home on Isle au Haut, Maine.

SCORES STORY ON ASSESSMENT

Assessed valuation of Santa Ana is not up $2,000,000 over last year, as was stated last week in a Santa Ana daily newspaper other than The Journal.

City Auditor Lloyd Banks made this clear last night when he told members of the city council about the erroneous statements made in the other newspaper.

As a matter of fact, he said, the assessed valuation was increased but $291,000, and not $2,000,000. The article in The Journal about the assessed valuation was correct.

"If we had had a $2,000,000 increase," Banks said, "we would have been able to reduce taxes this year because more money could have been raised on the increased assessed valuation. The newspaper that printed the story about the increase even had an editorial on the same subject."

Santa Ana's assessed taxable valuation for the new fiscal year was $52,309,100, excluding intangibles.

On that day the annual convention of the State Association of County Planners will be held in this city.

Last night Secretary Jules Markel of the county planning commission informed the city council that Santa Ana has been awarded the convention for this year.

Markel asked the council to give permission for the use of the city council chamber for convention meetings, which will be held all day and evening, beginning at 10 a. m.

A luncheon meeting will be held at noon, lasting about two hours, Markel said. This meeting will be held in the Legion hall or at Danger's cafe, he said.

From 60 to 80 planners from all parts of the state will attend the convention here, Markel said. National authorities on county and city planning will address sessions of the convention.

The council last night accepted an invitation proffered by Markel to attend sessions of the convention. Members of the council said they will urge members of the city's official family to attend sessions.

The cooperative agreement between the farmer and the government is a contract whereby California farmers are shown practical methods of protecting the soil from erosion.

Officials of the Soil Conservation Service at Santa Paula showed that Orange and Los Angeles counties have 116 farms under agreement with the government. This accounts for a total acreage of 22,150, officials said.

In California there are now 668 farms with an area of 72,688 acres. These are under five-year cooperative agreements with the government.

The new ordinance will contain a provision specifying that a notice be printed in the upper right hand corner of the handbill or circular, saying that if persons do not want the material left at their homes they can call the distributor and notify him they do not want it delivered. Vitamins Related To Baldness

By C. N. CHRISMAN, M. D.

For six years, I have been watching some experiments at the University of Missouri which concerned the health of the skin and particularly the growth of hair. The experimenters are Drs. Luther R. Richardson and Albert G. Hogan. The first finding was that the vitamin known as B was in reality a mixture of two, at least, and probably more vitamins.

The one now definitely known as B is used to prevent polynuria. The other, now designated as G was the factor that stabilized the skin functions and prevented dermatitis.

Without going into the scientific angle of the study, I was interested in the experiments on hair in the laboratory. As usual, rates were used to develop the theories. The demonstrations were always accompanied, whatever the other symptoms, by the loss of hair.

In studying the experiments at the University of Missouri, it seemed significant that by a deficiency diet, they could denude a rat of his natural coat and by restoring certain factors, he might again be clothed in fine silky fur.

I take the liberty of giving you the answer from Dr. Richardson to my several questions.

They have been asked frequently the same question that you have asked. We have not done any experimental work on human subjects and I am not familiar with the literature of the human scalp. It is possible baldness in a few cases may be due to a deficiency of some of the substances but undoubtedly there are many other things which may be the cause of this trouble.

"I am sorry that I cannot give you any definite information regarding nutrition and baldness but so far as I am aware there is nothing available which is based upon experimental evidence."

And I am sorry to give you that last paragraph but if we face the facts, maybe some one will get busy and do something about the serious problem of baldness. Dr. Richardson predicts another anti-dermatitis vitamin, H.

Chicken Casserole Easily Made

By JUDITH WILSON

Today's recipes are unusual and attractive but so simple to prepare that even the bride who has had little experience in the kitchen can make them successfully.

CHICKEN CASSEROLE

This dish makes an ample meal for 2 and can be made to serve 3 in a pinch. Get a 2-pound broiler and have the butcher cut it in 4 pieces. Wash, dry and saute in 4 tablespoons melted butter until golden brown. While the chicken is browning, prepare your vegetables. Mix 1/2 cups sliced, scraped carrots, 1 1/2 cups diced, scraped potatoes and 2 tablespoons finely minced onion. Put half of the vegetables in the casserole, arrange the pieces of browned chicken on top and add the rest of the vegetables. Pour in 1 cup canned chicken broth or chicken bouillon into the dish, sprinkle with salt and pepper and the butter in which the chicken was browned. Cover and bake in a slow oven for 1 hour. Serve from the casserole.

RHUBARB CRISP

Wash 1 pound rhubarb and cut in 1/2-inch slices. Do not peel the tender pink stalks. Put into a 1-quart casserole, sprinkle with a mixture of 1/4 cup sugar, 1/2 cup flour and 2 tablespoons butter crumbled together lightly. Bake 30 minutes in a hot oven until piping crisp. Serve hot with a rhubarb is tender and the top fluffy hard sauce of custard sauce. This makes 4 portions.

VEGETABLE COCKTAIL

This colorful appetizer can be made with odds and ends of vegetables. For 2, use 1/2 cup cooked asparagus cut into 1/2-inch pieces, 2 tablespoons minced celery, 1 teaspoon minced chives, 3 tablespoons diced cucumber, 1/2 cup tomato or chili sauce and 6 tablespoons lemon juice. Mix thoroughly, season to taste with salt and chill thoroughly. Place a small lettuce leaf in a cocktail glass, fill with the vegetable mixture and serve with toasted saltines or crackers with melted cheese.

Hollywood Sights and Sounds

HOLLYWOOD.—Frank Lloyd's production of "Wells Fargo" covers a lot of American history, from 1844 to 1870, and incidentally traces the story of transcontinental communication. So it was interesting to see Joel McCrea playing a pony express rider, to have Frank Lloyd's daughter Alma visit her father on the set, wearing an orchid that had left Honolulu the day before.

The lady in crinolines to whom McCrea makes love in this picture is Mrs. McCrea or Frances Dee. It is their first film together since "The Silver Cord," in which they met and fell in love. And now all they have to do to make their love scenes convincing is to act the way they always do.

They used to be a hesitancy in casting husband and wife as romancers in the same picture, but now the casters grant that audiences have grown up enough to admit marriages might be romantic. At least Joan Crawford and Paul Henreid are together in enough pictures. And maybe Dick Powell and Joan Blondell, who used to romance on the screen before they were married, will again be considered the type for each other.

Exposure To Sun, Wind, Demands Oil

By JACQUELINE HUNT

Every woman dreams to think about growing old. Yet age is not so terrible if you only know how to meet it—if you can manage to stay busy and to keep your emotions and interest young, alert and confident.

It is not difficult to "feel young" if you can maintain a smart, youthful appearance.

With age, certain lines are to be expected, but they should be kept soft and kindly—truly character lines if you want to be beautiful as you grow older. You must realize that advancing years are not the only thing that cause lines in your face. Illness, fatigue, a strict reducing diet or insufficient nourishing foods and vitamins will bring new lines and will emphasize those you already have.

Exposure to wind and sun will also cause the skin to become weathered and dry and a dry skin is always prey to lines and wrinkles. This kind of lines can usually be eradicated by treating the skin with rich lubricating creams and oils, and using massage or a good stimulating preparation to improve the circulation.

The dry skin should be cleaned thoroughly. Start with cleansing or cold cream. Wipe away the first application with tissues, then apply a second film. Wring a wash cloth from very warm water and hold over the skin a minute or two to soften it and help it absorb some of the cream.

Wash with warm water and a bland soap; dry and go over your skin repeatedly with warm muscle oil. Better still, if you have time for it, dip strips of gauze in warm muscle oil or plain olive oil and lay them over the face and neck, pouring any of the warm oil that remains over the gauze mask. Leave this mask on the skin for 20 minutes, then remove and blot away any remaining oil with absorbent tissues.

Saturate a pad of cotton with mild skin tonic or ice water and go over your face and throat with upward strokes. When you have applied tonic to your entire face, let it dry naturally.

TO REUNION

Miss Waneeta Bradford of 920 West Eighth street will leave Saturday for Lancaster to attend a family reunion at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Bradford, celebrating the birthday anniversary of her mother. She will return to Santa Ana after staying there a week and vacationing for a fortnight at Yellowstone park.

Lola Larkin, English star in a Broadway revue, is urged by Winfield Balcom to marry him. His father, Senator Balcom, retains Martha Carter, a clever lawyer, to prevent this seeming mesalliance. Norman Standish, Englishman, and his bride, Cora, arrive from abroad, and Standish meets Lola secretly. Cora goes to her best friend, who is Martha Carter, and retains her to offer Lola a big sum of money to let her husband "one. Cora also sees Lola with her sister's husband and is doubly furious. Martha attempts to take Lola out to let Lola quit Martha's office in anger.

CHAPTER XX

MARTHA CARVER stood in the doorway of her outer office and watched the elevator dial hand turn as the car descended, taking the angry Lola Larkin down.

Even if she could spot Lola, Martha realized it would do no good, for she was far too angry to listen to reason.

Martha was equally angry and greatly disappointed. She went over in her mind all she had said. She was sure she had been diplomatic, sweet-tempered, and had made the approach carefully.

Lola's undisguised indignation that burst the moment Norman Standish's name was mentioned convinced Martha that Cora had every reason to believe Lola Larkin was luring her husband away.

The situation seemed to Martha far more serious than she had at first believed.

A telephone call from Senator Balcom took her back to her private office.

"Any reports, Miss Carter?" the senator asked.

"Nothing we can use, senator," Martha told him. "But it's a little early, yet."

"We've got to work fast," the senator growled. He was more direct than ever. Martha could tell by his voice. "Mrs. Balcom is on the verge of a nervous breakdown. The boy is still stubborn and we almost had a quarrel. Anyway, when you do have news, let me know at once."

Martha promised.

The door to her private office opened and Cora rushed in again.

"The girl said you were alone, my dear," she cried. "So I knew you wouldn't mind if I arrived without being announced. I waited across the street in that tearoom purposely. I saw the Larkin girl go into this building and I saw her come out. I must say, my dear, you did it quickly. She didn't seem to be up here five minutes."

Cora sat down, smiling happily.

MARTHA wondered how she was going to break the shocking truth to her. She took Cora's check from her desk drawer.

"This doesn't look as though I succeeded, does it?" she asked grimly.

Cora's lips quivered and she began to cry.

"Come now, Cora, there are more ways than one to do a thing. I'm going to try another way. Unless you get mad and fight, instead of sitting around and sobbing neither of us will get anywhere."

Cora blinked back her tears and twisted her handkerchief. A picture of helplessness despair.

"Whatever am I to do? I think I'll tell Norman that I know him to forget her. Yes, I think—"

"The very worst thing you could do, at least at present, Cora. You mustn't let your husband know you're aware of his seeming interest in the Larkin girl."

"Seemingly interested! Didn't I see him embrace her and kiss her with my own eyes?"

Martha sighed.

"I haven't decided on my next move, but I can't do a thing for you now unless you continue to pretend ignorance and remain seemingly smiling and gay."

"I suppose you know best, Martha. But I can't be happy without Norman!"

"Well, run along and let me think. Something has got to be done."

Cora went out, more dejected than ever.

MARTHA sat in thought for a while, going over everything, including the luncheon at the Waldorf where she saw Lola with Victor Mansfield. Cora's young sister's husband, Cora had said that he was an executive of Elite Productions. If she could get in touch with him, he might give her some information about Miss Larkin that would be of value.

If she had guessed correctly that Lola was trying to get into pictures through Mansfield, perhaps she could find a way to induce Mansfield to take Lola out to the coast right after the show closed.

She looked up the New York offices of the Elite Productions, Inc., in the telephone book and put it in a call.

"I want to speak to Mr. Victor Mansfield," she said.

"Mr. Mansfield is on his way back to Hollywood now, in a plane," Martha was informed. She got his Hollywood address and began to outline the sort of a letter she thought she ought to send him. But she didn't compose it then, deciding to give it more thought.

Martha tried to occupy her tortured mind with office details and finally went home with a headache, which was something she seldom suffered.

In the morning she had a half-formed plan. She was to see Norman Standish herself, to see him alone and to make an effort to awaken him to his senses. After all, from what Cora had told her, he wasn't so terribly wealthy. Cora had inherited millions and it seemed to Martha that Standish would think twice before he would let a wife of such wealth divorce him.

First, she had to figure out some way to get word to him without Cora's knowledge. The only man Martha knew who knew Standish was Major Worthing in the British consulate, whom Cora had mentioned.

Major Worthing, Martha was informed by some under-secretary at the consulate, had left on his vacation.

Everything seemed to be going wrong. Martha was in no happy frame of mind, as she had to talk with several small clients and go into tiresome legal details.

It was almost noon when a messenger boy came to her office and handed her a letter. She recognized the writing at once. It was from Cora.

She ripped open the envelope, and took out the note, which read:

Dear Martha.—I haven't a minute to spare now but will write you later. I believe I have solved everything by making Norman consent to go to Hollywood with me to visit Norma. We are leaving by plane this morning. I gave orders to have this delivered at noon so you couldn't stop me.

CORA.

POISON DRINKERS.... Though a deadly poison when injected into the blood stream, the venom of the puff adder may be swallowed without ill effect. The Kaffirs of South Africa use it for poisoning their arrows, and drink the same poison, believing that it will protect them if they should be bitten by an adder.

MONROE DOCTRINE.... Strange as it seems, it was John Quincy Adams, not James Monroe, who originally formulated the so-called Monroe Doctrine. With the recently formed republics in South and Central America looking toward their "big sister" in the north for protection from European powers who threatened their independence, the United States sought a policy to govern her treatment of the matter. James Monroe was President when matters came to a head and it was on his administration that the problem fell.

Long discussions were held by Secretary of State John Quincy Adams convincing the President that he should make a declaration of policy. In his papers on the subject, Adams formulated the chief points of the Monroe Doctrine as it stands today. Most of the Presidential message on the Doctrine which Monroe gave on December 2, 1823, was prepared by Adams, even its phrasing and wording being largely written by him.

Dear Judge: Has any husband ever known what size to ask for when buying gifts of clothing for his wife?

No, but it doesn't matter. There never was a wife who didn't exchange her husband's gifts anyway.

A Successful Safety Campaign

Having reviewed the amazing success of Chief Howard's safety driving campaign here during the past five months, we are willing to bet our last copy pencil that no city in the United States can surpass, or even come near equalling, the record.

Look at this:
Deaths last year were 133 per cent more numerous than this year at this time.

Property losses have been slashed 60 per cent.
Claims presented to auto clubs have been whittled 40 per cent.

Or look at the traffic casualty reduction in another way.

Last year for the same period, there were seven people killed and nearly 50 injured in the city.

But this year, since the start of the campaign, deaths have been cut to three, and the injuries to 15.

In other words, there are four people walking around town today alive and happy who otherwise might have been sprouting daisies in the graveyard had traffic conditions continued as they were.

And there are 35 people strutting around unharmed who otherwise might have been in a hospital, or who might be wearing the scars and scratches of a street corner smashup.

We are especially glad to call the public's attention to the remarkable results of Chief Howard's drive.

And as one of the few papers in California cited for "devoted service to the cause of accident prevention" by the California Safety Council, Inc., we are going to see to it that the council gets the full data on the work of the local police department.

Such a campaign for safety must be widely copied by the cities of the United States if the terrible death toll on the streets is ever to be stemmed.

By acquainting the Safety Council with the methods used in Santa Ana, we hope to get nationwide publicity for Chief Howard's system.

In this connection, the Chief announces that he will ask the city council to pass an ordinance permitting the prosecution of all drivers in accidents where negligence is indicated, whether there is a personal injury or not.

No doubt the council, which is also safety minded, will speedily pass this wise law.

The reckless driver must be curbed. One of the most effective ways to curb him—as the local experience shows—is to combine enforcement and education.

Republicans say they were against the President's court plan, but they can't prove it by the congressional record.

Consider the Poor Hat Manufacturer

If you think this business of being in business is just a picnic—a pleasant task of raking in profits and getting rich quick, consider for a moment the plight of the poor hat manufacturers.

They had a nice business built up, factories booming, salesmen selling, wholesalers and retailers distributing their product throughout the nation. Statisticians had things all figured out on a nice scientific basis of so many hats a year for every man and woman in the country.

Then came disaster!

All over the nation men began going without hats. Instead of selling to or three hats a year to the average well-dressed male, the hatmakers sold only one or two.

That was bad enough. But now, to make it worse, the girls have taken to these new-fangled halo creations (you can't really call them hats now, can you?) and the hatmakers are all in a dither for fear that the next step will be for women to go without even halos—hatless or with just a metal band or ornament. And then where would the poor hat makers be!

Tch! Tch! Tch!

They're almost in as bad a fix as the lingerie manufacturers who (dare we mention unmentionables?), since the coming of the girdle, have been driven almost frantic by the radical change in feminine habits or wearing—or should be say, not wearing—the aforesaid unmentionables.

Yessir, it's a great life, this being a business man. Nothing to worry about but adding up the profits at the end of every month!

In these days a good diplomat is one who can resist being talked into an agreement to keep the peace.

No Moping and Pining

"Nothing is impossible to a valiant heart." Thus ran the motto of Jeanne d'Albret of Navarre, mother of Henry IV, who adopted it as his own.

"It is not a lucky word, this same 'impossible,' no good comes of those that have it so often in their mouth." Thus Carlyle, reporter of history.

Napoleon Bonaparte is quoted thus: "The world 'impossible' is not French."

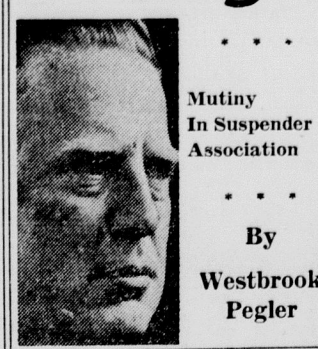

To be sure, there are other quotations on record giving another, the pessimistic view, and proving that some things are actually impossible, such as numbering the sands of the sea or drinking it dry.

The plus side of the ledger of human achievement, however, is filled with the accounts of those individuals who either consciously or unconsciously tackled the seemingly impossible with a valiant heart.

Those who in this broad, bright world today, see only a wall of "impossibles" around them, qualify as mental shut-ins and are to be pitied.

Achievement, adventure, progress—much more than a purely mechanical or humdrum existence, are available to those who will attack seeming impossibilities "with a valiant heart."

NEW YORK.—Men, I have been having a terrible time lately over a problem which just grew out of nothing.

You know I used to like to watch men demonstrate suspenders in drug store windows. Well, a few years ago a friend of mine suddenly realized that this wasn't being done any more, and hadn't been done to any serious extent since about 1915. So he thought it would be funny to get up a society for the revival of the demonstration of suspenders in drug store windows, and invite me to join it.

He got about 200 joiners at the start—men of all religious beliefs and political peculiarities. We paid 50 cents initiation fee and a dollar a year dues, in return for which we received a funny card and the high-sign. For the high-sign, you opened your vest, put your hands under your galluses, run them up and down, stretched the galluses out and let them snap.

In the beginning that was all there was to it. We were supposed to vote for the national officers, but most of us didn't bother, and the original organizer and a couple of other simply elected and re-elected themselves and changed the constitution and by-laws to suit themselves, usually in the direction of frivolity. But the idea caught on, and two years ago there were 10,000 on the rolls, scattered all over.

IT WAS MUTINY

About that time, politics and personal ambition reared their ugly heads. A clique got into the controlling offices and called a national convention in Denver, at which it was decided to open the rolls to people who liked to watch men demonstrate exercising machines and razor strops in drug store windows, although our original membership explicitly abhorred exercising machines and razor strop demonstrations, regarding them as aesthetically inferior to suspender demonstrations. Then the usurpers put through an amendment at the last minute to include persons who like to watch mechanical sock-darner demonstrations, fountain pen demonstrations and potato paring and slicing demonstrations.

We, the founding fathers, so to speak, regarded ourselves as the elite of those who like to watch demonstrations in drug store windows, and resented all this with a slight feeling of betrayal. But there were a lot of Communists and professional organizers at work in the outfit by now, who knew all the school arguments and radical tricks, so we were swamped.

DOUBLECROSSED BY MOSCOW But still we original members did not take the matter seriously until the next annual convention which was held in Milwaukee. None of us attended because it was too far away for most, and anyway we couldn't get any of our people elected.

So at the Milwaukee convention the Moscow crowd decided to go C. I. O. on the ground that if you elevate those who live in the valleys of society you benefit those who live on the peaks.

The national president made a speech in which he said that only a supercilious and snobbish aristocracy would take literally the original purpose of reviving suspender demonstrations to the exclusion of those who liked to watch demonstrations of exercising machines, razor strops, mechanical sock darners, fountain pens and potato paring and slicing devices. He said the purpose was to benefit all those who liked to watch demonstrations of whatever kind, not only in drug store windows, but in hardware store windows, too, and even in the windows of empty stores.

Well, they not only went C. I. O. despite the fact that many of us favored the A. F. of L., and thus were put on the spot, but they adopted a resolution in favor of Stalin against Trotsky, the Madrid Communist against Franco's Fascist, and oysters against clams. They also adopted as a new high-sign the clenched fist.

YOU NEVER CAN TELL

Of course, some of us may have sympathized with Stalin over Trotsky, Madrid against Franco, and oysters against clams, but even so most of us thought these matters were not properly the business of society. Nevertheless, our A. F. of L. sympathizers found themselves committed to an organization which they hated, and Catholics were delivered to the church burners and priest killers of Spain, and our oyster lovers were placed in the clam column against their wills.

Then they raised the dues $200 a year, instituted a series of fines and pledged themselves to follow the full strength of the C. I. O. into the picket line around any office, plant or other business premises employing anyone who might resign from our society.

TOPEKA.—Taffites won first blood in the Republican state council today when a resolution was adopted, 40 to 37, demanding that Theodore Roosevelt electors resign their places on the Republican ticket, and use the Independent column. This practically forces a complete third party ticket in Kansas.

OAKLAND.—With 13,000 volts short circuited through his body and nearly decapitating him, Carl Miller, a lineman, retained consciousness and conversed with the surgeons today. The current shattered his leg, exposing the knee bones. Doctors say it is the most remarkable case ever to come to their notice. Two others were injured while trying to aid Miller.

Miss May Nield is entertaining Miss Sarah Betz, a nurse from the Loma Linda sanitarium. They are enjoying the breezes at Newport where they will be joined today by the Misses Maude and Ethel Squires, of Anaheim.

A warrant is out for the arrest of Thomas Newman for forging the name of E. Carlson, a local tailor, to a check for $18. The check was cashed by Harry Miller, a West Fourth street clothing merchant. The check was drawn on the California National bank and was cashed by Miller yesterday.

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON.—The President will sign the bill making a few changes in lower court procedure, and turning over to the chief justice his supreme court reorganization plan. But there will be a stinger attached to his signature.

He plans to issue a statement declaring that the legislation does not satisfy him and that he has not abandoned his determination to infuse new blood into the federal judiciary. The pronouncement will be couched in temperate language, but its tone of rebuke and challenge will be clear.

The President and his advisers are firmly convinced that the majority opinion of the country is with him on the issue. Even his senate foes created a special committee to "study" the federal courts. The administration views this action as conclusive evidence that they are worried over the fact that the Republican Party is trying to protect themselves against its adverse political effects by this placating gesture.

No one expects the committee to recommend anything drastic—if it recommends anything at all.

IF COURT SWINGS RIGHT

Some of the President's intimates have urged him to crack down on the opposition placing squarely on them the responsibility for any future invalidation of the supreme court of liberal state measures. Some of the ants are known to be fearful that the court may swing right again. They are actually hoping Justice Sutherland will resign so as to ensure a pro-New Deal majority.

Sutherland indicated to senate friends last spring, when they approached him with the suggestion that he retire, that he might do so after the court bill had been disposed of.

Note: When the emasculated substitute bill was first brought out in the senate, the President seriously considered vetoing it. But the Tennessee Valley authority strongly urged its approval because of the provision requiring a three-judge lower court to invalidate a federal act. The TVA has been seriously injured by the recent vetoing of the bill.

Halsey was doubtful. "The air conditioning is okay," he explained, "but some of these wise-cracking reporters might call it the 'pell-mell' room."

Halsey was very explicit about the decorations and lighting. He insisted on orange-colored lights, explaining that orange signified "deep emotion." The white house furnished the floral effects, palms, ferns and lilies.

PERSONALITY.—The senatorial guests assembled in gay humor. When the orchestra played "My Old Kentucky Home," in honor of Barkley, all joined in singing it. Whether by pre-arrangement or accident, the music followed a very suggestive routine. The next tune it played was "Cheek to Cheek," then "Too Old to Dream," then "The Merry-Go-Round Broke Down," and it concluded with "The Last Round-up."

This song drew loud laughs and cheers.

At 8:30 o'clock, as the dinner was getting under way, Vice President Garner, sitting at the head table, turned to the waiter and said: "Don't serve me anything more to drink. I've had enough."

The most significant remarks of the evening were made by Senator Burt Wheeler, once a left-wing firebrand, now the intimate of the conservative leaders of the senate. There is strong personal feeling between him and the white house. The New Dealers accuse him of switching horses in order to further secret presidential ambitions.

"I am a liberal," Wheeler said, "regardless of what certain people may say to the contrary. But there is a time for all things. The way I see it is that when the Republicans are in power the Democratic party should be radical. But when we must use restraint and moderation. We have had too much of this New Deal liberalism."

UNPERTURBED Rep. Michael J. Bradley, scrappy Philadelphia New Dealer, was laboring Rep. Clare E. Hoffman, Michigan Republican, for criticizing the President.

"The gentleman," shouted Bradley, "engaged in the most vituperative attacks upon practically everyone who at any time had evinced a desire to be of help to labor. The President of the United States, the governor of Pennsylvania, and not even the wife of the President was immune from his vituperative and cowardly remarks."

"A point of order, Mr. Speaker," broke in Rep. Joseph Martin, assistant G. O. P. floor leader, "the gentleman is using language about a member of the house that is not permitted."

"Okay," said Bradley unperturbed, "strike out vituperative." The chamber roared with laughter.

F. C. Stella, Mo.—It is entirely erroneous to say that the Friends Service committee, beneficiary of Mrs. Roosevelt's charity, is "working for the suppression of capitalism." This organization has a social, not a political program. Its conservatism is indicated by the facts that Herbert Hoover chose this agency to conduct the post-war child relief program in Germany, and that much of the financial backing of the FSC comes from politically conservative Philadelphia. . . . One Man's Opinion

FLYING VS. CRAWLING

By X REPORTER

My old friend Wes Pegler, who is a big-time ex-reporter, cried himself to sleep the other night with a column-long wail about not wanting to go to heaven.

I didn't think you could be so dumb, Wes. Of course, nobody would want to go to the kind of heaven you describe. No, nor to the fiery hell that is the only logical opposite of such a sugar-and-water heaven.

Be your age, Wes. A missionary came through my town the other day and dropped the remark that his brethren don't try to scare Eskimo kids with stories of a red-hot hell any more because the Eskimos rather like the notion of being permanently warm.

And you, Wes: I judge from your remarks that a roomy "oaken" restaurant that serves sizzling English mutton chops and huge Idaho baked potatoes with plenty of contention and dispute over the glass or two of ale, and a newspaper press running full blast in the basement—I judge that would be your notion of a perfect heaven. Too, you'd insist that the place be peopled with "right guys."

I'll have to admit that maybe you have something there, Wes, especially that newspaper press and "hot" stories breaking all the time.

Out this way, too, we read the pre-mise essay of Josh Wilson, the mid-west news reporter who, as you say, gloated over the fact that when he met death, in the flicker of an eyelash he would know the answer to the riddle that all the sages and savants of the ages have puzzled over.

You pretend to believe, Wes, that Josh can't be happy wherever he may have gone from this earth—assuming that he has gone anywhere—because things will be so different than what he's enjoyed here.

That's like saying a tadpole couldn't be happy as a frog, Wes, or a caterpillar as a butterfly. Of course, from the caterpillar's point of view he probably couldn't. But a butterfly can't have a caterpillar's point of view, not possibly.

So, don't you write any pre-scription for Josh Wilson's happiness, Wes. You're the poor old crawly caterpillar in this story. Wes, with a caterpillar's appetites, outlook and limitations.

The Mailbag

Public opinion, or what somebody in office imagines to be public opinion, is our rule. If public opinion is active, the politicians and people sit up and take notice. If it is dead, it is used for outspoken talking and thinking on public matters. Honest, intelligent fair discussion of our problems is immensely useful. So, that every citizen may have his say and contribute to the formation of public opinion, The Journal invites letters to The Mailbag.

THEATRE BOYCOTT

To the Editor: May I have space in your columns for a few words in support of the practice of local movie theaters of seating Mexicans in the balconies?

It seems to me in highly commendable that a theater operator has the vision and courage to assure American citizens who go to his houses for entertainment, that they will not be forced to be seated next to a foreigner who is not used to American habits of behavior. I would like to see the "great unwashed" the right to enjoy the pictures—the theater man doesn't do that either. He merely asks that they be seated in a certain section of the house where they will be around kindred spirits and where naturally they should be more comfortable themselves and enjoy the "evening out" better.

A boycott, such as has just been called by certain "bigwigs" of the Mexicans over this matter, is a very un-American habit of mind. It deprives them of attending the theaters where the lowest prices are charged. But maybe they have so many expenses that higher prices for movies don't mean anything in their gay lives.

Thanking you for this opportunity of expressing myself, I am, Yours truly, Santa Ana.

So-called successful playboys have been as successful in business as Billy Seeman. Although a settled family man now, following his marriage to the beautiful Phyllis Haver, he was in bachelor days a generous host to Broadway. During the period Mayor Walker was on the upbeat, Seeman was his particular pal. At his penthouse parties one might find Paul White-man or George Gershwin leading a suddenly made up orchestra. But never, during these high-stepping years, did Seeman fail to show at his office next day and put in eight hours hard work. He had high and handsome, kept fit by regular exercise and worked like a Trojan. And thus escaped the wind-up of the usual playboy.

The finest compliment ever paid a certain tosy New York restaurateur came from a Texan dining with a friend. The head-waiter had been instructed to overlook nothing. Untucking his napkin after the feast, the long-horn beamed: "Pardner, that was boardin'!"

CONGRATULATIONS, SANTA ANA

Editorial comment in one of the Santa Ana papers to the effect that while the county's death toll for the year is greatly in excess of the same figure last year, the city of Santa Ana can only be charged with three such deaths, gives abundant cause for laudatory writing.

Plenty of people, especially those given "tickets" in the early days of the campaign felt that Chief Howard and his men were "cracking down" on offenders more drastically than was actually needed. Such persons, of whom this writer is one, owe the chief and his department an apology. Traffic citations are certainly annoying; they are not permanent. Death and injury unfortunately are quite permanent. Hence anything that tends to prevent serious accident is distinctly necessary.

Santa Ana is to be congratulated for having had the necessary fortitude to incur business risk in its drive for the elimination of needless traffic accidents. It would be well, we suspect, in the light of Santa Ana's experience, if the entire county would take a lesson from its largest city and see just what can be done on this score.

Incidentally, our own city is also remarkably free from similar occurrences, due largely, we suspect, to having gained a reputation for severity in traffic regulation enforcement. It's a good record to hold these days.

WHIMSIES

DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK.—Cafe competition has become so complex that even the big money making restaurants are beginning to worry about profits—the margin of which is unusually large. Almost everybody whose bank roll begins to bulge, buys a few tables, rents a room and hangs up a sign.

The astonishing block on West 52nd street now solidly lined on each side with every sort of eating place illustrates the idea. Broadway has scarcely any enterprises any more save movie houses and restaurants. The upper East Side is being fairly overrun with new eating places.

Sherman Billingsley has been giving gold coins to favorite Stork Club customers. "No. 21" publishes an expensive book filled with contributions of famous author guests. Another gets out a weekly tabloid with pictures about the headlines who gather there.

Every sort of entertainment is being offered with food. Ladies on the flying trapeze, crystal gazers, palmists, ventriloquists and such. The domestic problem is a boon to the new order. People who rarely dined out are now seldom dining home because of servant trouble.

Frank Case, himself, is no mean shakes as a litterateur although hiding most of his bravuras behind anonymity. He has under sundry pseudonyms contributed to most of the newspaper columns, to the sophisticated weeklies and is now, at leisure, writing a book that will recount experiences for years at his West 44th street tavern.

Residents of Harlem are non-committal about the headlined Messiah, Father Divine. Even those who oppose his religious frenzies—and they are in majority—keep their tongues held in silence by the inherent negro fear of voodoo-like punishment. Several of Father Divine's detractors have met with strange misfortune. Of course, every instance was sheer coincidence, but to many in Harlem it meant Divine held some strange juju jungle witchery over events and persons. In fact this superstition saved him from almost complete ruin by his followers in the recent ruckus that sent him fleeing the law.

Morgan Dennis has become America's foremost etcher of dogs. His collection is exhibited each year at a 5th avenue gallery and brings out the dog lovers of note. He is in constant demand by winners of prize-winning breeds to immortalize their pets but rarely takes on a personal assignment unless the subject is a dog that strikes his fancy.
